CASE 1

Mr. Jackle, 68 yrs old, is admitted with hypotension and respiratory distress requiring intubation following a large ST elevation anterior-lateral wall myocardial infarction.

Case 1: Question 1

Blueprint Competency Being Tested: 2.1a

1. Shortly after insertion of a right subclavian catheter, he develops worsening shortness of breath and bibasilar crackles. Blood is noted to be backing up from the central venous catheter and his oxygen saturation decreases with supine positioning. Which one of the following problems is consistent with these findings?

- a. Pulmonary embolus
- b. Right heart failure
- c. Cardiac pulmonary edema
- d. Hemopneumothorax

Rationale for Correct Response:

c) Anterior wall MI is typically associated with left ventricular dysfunction with increased left ventricular pressures. High left ventricular pressures back up to the pulmonary system, causing pulmonary congestion. Hallmarks of cardiac pulmonary edema include bibasilar crackles and orthostatic hypoxemia or distress. Elevated pulmonary pressures are transmitted to the right side of the heart and cause CVP elevation (blood backing up from central line) and peripheral edema.

Case 1: Question 2

Blueprint Competency Being Tested: 2.1b

2. Mr. Jackle will be monitored for signs of reinfarction. Which one of the following lab tests would best indicate reinfarction?

- a. Creatinine kinase
- b. Cardiac troponin
- c. Lactate dehydrogenase
- d. Venous oxygen saturation
