

Critical Theory of the Family

"A rigorous critique of theories of the family—historical, sociological, psychological—which attempts to provide a framework for a more workable theory. . . . An intellectually demanding work for serious history readers."

—Kirkus Reviews

"A valuable contribution to family sociology. . . . Poster is at his best, examining, summarizing, and critiquing the works of Sigmund Freud, the Frankfurt School, Jacques Lacan, Talcott Parsons, Erik Erikson, Gregory Bateson, and R.D. Laing. Each work is examined in terms of its conceptual mode of theorizing. Each theory is examined for its ideological content. . . . The second section of the book presents the rudiments of a psychoanalytically based critical theory of the family and then demonstrates the efficacy of the theory through an analysis of various historical forms of the family. . . . Mark Poster has provided us with an open and coherent first approximation of a critical theory of the family. He has presented a perspective which is of great value to sociology."

—Contemporary Sociology

"An ambitious undertaking [which] examines not only the family as an institution, but prior theories of the family as well. . . . The virtues of Poster's study are its clarity in an area often beclouded by all sorts of specialized rhetoric; its stress on the discontinuous nature of family history, and the suggestive, if brief, survey it offers of the historical specificity of the four family types [aristocratic, peasant, bourgeois, and proletarian]."

Comprehensive Multicultural Education in the 21st Century Brandi Hinnant-Crawford, C. Spencer Platt, Christopher Newman, Adriel A. Hilton, 2019-04-01 Multicultural education has become its own discipline developed on the shoulders of the work of giants who argued its merit during the attacks of opponents who believed assimilation was the purpose of state sponsored education. In an age of rising populism and nationalism throughout the Western world again questioned is the merit of multicultural education. In the shadows of Brexit and an America First agenda where migration patterns across the world have led to demographic shifts it is evident even in the richest countries in the world that gaps in opportunity and subsequently achievement still exist. Disparities in achievement lead some to question whether multicultural education works and others to revert to old notions that ethnically and linguistically marginalized students are in fact deficient. The scholars here believe in the untapped potential of all children and illuminate how educational structures have muffled the cultivation of that potential. Contributors argue the goals of multicultural education have not been achieved in part due to the piecemeal application of its tenants. The scholarship in this volume illustrates the state of multicultural education and articulates what educators committed to equity inclusion and a more just society must do to ensure the goals of multicultural education survive in the current age. The authors of these chapters bridge foundational knowledge with contemporary understandings making the work both accessible for novices and beneficial for the authorities on multicultural education. With the diverse cast of contributors and topics ranging from mathematics instruction to discipline practices this volume provides thoughtful discourse on issues of access access to curricular content access to opportunities to learn as well as impediments to access. Containing chapters that speak to discipline specific pedagogical practices the structures of schooling teacher education and research methodologies the collected work encourages scholars and practitioners to not be discouraged in the age of retrenchment.

Steinmetz, Marvin B. Sussman, 2013-11-11 The lucid straightforward Preface of this Handbook by the two editors and the comprehensive perspectives offered in the Introduction by one of them leave little for a Foreword to add It is therefore limited to two relevant but not intrinsically related points vis a vis research on marriage and the family in the interval since the first Handbook Christensen 1964 appeared namely the impact on this research of the politicization of the New Right and of the Feminist Enlightenment beginning in the mid sixties about the time of the first Handbook In the late 1930s Willard Waller noted Fifty years or more ago about 1890 most people had the greatest respect for the institution called the family and wished to learn nothing whatever about it Everything that concerned the life of men and women and their children was shrouded from the light Today much of that has been changed Gone is the concealment of the way in which life begins gone the irrational sanctity of the home The aura of sentiment which once protected the family from discussion clings to it no more We want to learn as much about it as we can and to understand it as thoroughly as possible for there is a rising recognition in America that vast numbers of its families are sick from internal frustrations and from external buffeting We are engaged in the process of reconstructing our family institutions through criticism and discussion 1938 pp 3 4
