Cross Cultural Approach To Health Behavior:

The Cross-cultural Approach to Health Behavior L. Riddick Lynch, 1969 Cross-Cultural Psychology Prof. Dr. Bilal Semih Bozdemir, To begin with it is essential to define migration and acculturation Migration refers to the movement of individuals from one geographical location to another often for reasons such as economic opportunity political instability or familial connections Acculturation on the other hand is the process through which individuals adopt adapt to or integrate aspects of a new culture This transformation may include changes in language social behaviors belief systems and daily routines The acculturation process can be both voluntary and involuntary and the degree to which individuals immerse themselves in the new culture can vary widely One of the primary challenges faced by migrants is the stress associated with the transition from one cultural framework to another This transition can manifest in various ways leading to a phenomenon often referred to as culture shock Culture shock encompasses feelings of disorientation anxiety and frustration stemming from the differences between one's original and new cultural settings Symptoms may include social isolation language barriers and difficulty accessing social support networks Such stressors can contribute to an increased risk of mental health disorders including anxiety and depression particularly in the initial stages following migration
