Citizenship in Latin America Joseph S. Tulchin, Meg Ruthenburg, 2007 Is democracy in Latin America in trouble as many now argue This book focuses on citizenship to shed light on the dynamics and obstacles that the region's democracies face It places citizenship in the context of democratic theory and explores varying conceptions of the term

Globalization and Culture Change in the Pacific Islands Victoria S. Lockwood, 2004 Offering insight into the major changes that are taking place in the context of increasing globalization in Pacific Island societies the authors seek to ground globalization in concrete real life cases of communities that are dealing with specific processes of globalization and formulating their own responses in their own cultural terms The case studies presented reflect the many different cultural contexts of island societies as they deal with global politics nation states and ethnic conflict global economic integration and transnationalism evolving identities and cultural representations changes in patterns of social and community relations and increasing integration into global religions For anyone interested in the effects of globalization on the peoples and cultures of the Pacific

Global Perspectives on Complementary and Alternative Medicine Helen E. Sheehan, Barrett P. Brenton, 2002-09 Once labeling complementary and alternative medicine CAM as quackery or fraud the biomedical community is becoming increasingly complex as it struggles to cope with the explosion of alternative treatments seen in the United States With the establishment of the National Center for Complementary and Alternative Medicine along with an increase in departments or courses on alternative medicine seen in major American medical schools CAM has nudged its way into mainstream medicine Now that it has gained a foothold in the biomedical community several questions arise about its impact on our culture This issue of the ANNALS sheds light on the political economic role as well as socio cultural influences of CAM over the past 20 years This collection of articles also addressees the global and cross cultural dimensions of CAM With ever changing messages in the media about CAM and biomedicine the task of evaluating it is daunting Yet the contributors to this issue social scientists devote to researching the effects of Cam on our society are able to provide insight and a thorough commentary on the meanings of health illness and modes of healing

Cumulated Index to the Books ,1999 The Other World Joseph Weatherby,2000 The Other World Fourth Edition is designed to give students an overview of contemporary issues in the developing world Using an engaging and informative interdisciplinary approach it provides students with fundamental information on current problems common to developing areas The text presents regional coverage of Latin America Africa Asia and the Middle East The authors describe the similarities and differences among nations within these regions and trace events and issues in selected countries in each region

American Indian Culture and Research Journal ,2001 Geographies of Indigeneity in the Ecuadorian Amazon Gabriela Isaura Valdivia,2005 Mexican Community Health and the Politics of Health Reform Suzanne D. Schneider,2010-06-15 The struggle of Mexicans to secure quality health care is the focal point of this study Large scale transformations in Mexico s national health care system have resulted in budget cuts increased user fees and decreased public services At the local level community based health groups that practice popular medicine are addressing the challenge by training health promoters in a variety of preventive and healing practices and offering low cost services in community clinics Their health care approach integrates local and global practices ranging from Mexican herbalism to Chinese medicine Suzanne Schneider s ethnographic study of grassroots health groups in Morelos Mexico addresses the lives of the participants and the groups contributions to community health What draws women to these groups Are they reacting to their experiences with formal health care To what extent are the groups teachings applied in the household and accepted throughout the community Does group participation offer women new sources of empowerment or avenues to income generation Does the government support these groups How do they fit into larger trends of health care reform and the shift toward privatization Taking a political economic approach Schneider examines the conditions under which community based health groups are emerging and explores the ways different constituencies address health dilemmas She delineates future roles for new participants in health care new models of community health and a new medical pluralism

Community Health Organizing and the Political Economy of Health Care in Morelos, Mexico Suzanne D. Schneider,2006 This dissertation analyzes the emergence of a community based alternative health care movement in Morelos Mexico and its local expressions among health groups in the mestizo town of Zarragoza Influenced by self help approaches cultural revitalization efforts and the global alternative medicine movement health groups in this study run community clinics natural pharmacies and health promoter training programs in order to make the health care alternatives they offer accessible and affordable to community residents This study explores the work of three health groups in Zaragoza and examines the practices they employ in their community clinics and the discourses that their participants advocate The study situates local health organizing efforts in the context of global and national health policies that influence paradigms governing formal health care distribution and health sector reforms in Mexico Specifically it explores the strategies of local health groups as a response to the government's inadequate efforts to provide health for all and to alleviate health care shortages in the face of socioeconomic challenges that many Mexicans experience The study also examines health organizing as a response to perceived limitations of biomedicine as the population ages and the burden of chronic illnesses accelerates the deterioration of an underfunded public health system As health care protection decreases under neoliberal state reforms health groups advocate a new way of doing health care that emphasizes patient participation in illness prevention health education and the attainment of medical care outside of government health structures This dissertation merges critical and political economy approaches in medical anthropology with actor oriented frameworks By considering how the agendas of health groups reflect local and global trends the study contributes to the medical anthropology literature by furthering our understanding of the global and syncretic nature of medical pluralism This dissertation also contributes a case study to the scarce literature on social movements in health offering new perspectives on how communities most specifically women are interacting with a myriad of global and national pressures to contribute solutions to local problems concerning health care By detailing local perspectives and grounding the project in issues of political economy this research offers new insights into local understandings of health care that may be overlooked in government health planning and the implementation of development programs

Journal of Anthropological Research, 1999 Europe in the Anthropological Imagination Susan Parman, 1998 Europe in the Anthropological Imagination is a provocative reflective book about how American anthropologists study Europe The book is composed of fourteen essays by twelve anthropologists who have worked in Europe for at least twenty years These anthropologists were asked to address how when where and why they began to study Europe and to consider what this implied for the development of anthropology in general since anthropology is traditionally identified as a field that studies the non western exotic Other Back cover Latin America Juan Manuel Pérez, 2004 This is a general bibliography on Latin America covering a wide variety of subjects from pre Columbian civilizations to Columbus to Castro to the foreign debt to pollution ect This work will not only be of use to the general casual reader on Latin America but also to the more specialized researcher The book contains over 800 topics with over 8 000 titles identified Globalization and Community J.-L. Chodkiewicz, Raymond E. Wiest, 2004 Is globalization a myth or a new reality Is it an overwhelming and ineluctable process or can human communities control trajectories of change Is globalization fair and advantageous and if so for whom Whatever the answer to these questions globalization forces are upon us Some of the implications are examined in this collection The aim of the contributors is to discuss ways to use the new economic social and cultural forces of globalization to help renew the vitality of struggling or fledgling communities Over the last decade a new global economy has rapidly changed how we work do business communicate and even think Twenty scholars from different backgrounds look at the process and impact of globalization from a Canadian perspective discussing issues such as indigenous peoples land use and the effect of television on remote communities      Drinking Water Politics in Rural Mexico Michael C.
