What Experts Say Juhyuk Park, 2021-02-09 Seminar paper from the year 2011 in the subject Economics Finance grade A The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill course Advanced Macroeconomics language English abstract What had happened to Korea and why did the nation have to face the IMF crisis in 1997 all of a sudden To see what the causes for the crisis were analyses from six essays of scholars and experts in the field of economics will be introduced and compared While they have similar and different views for the causes at the same time their views can be grouped into two categories internal factors and external factors When the Korean currency crisis broke out the IMF and many scholars focused the whole crisis on Korea's internal problems However there are many other scholars who attribute the causes not only to internal but also to external problems The experts who see the causes as internal problems think the crisis originated from internal factors of Korea such as policy mistakes highly leveraged corporate sectors and banking system The external factors refer to the external shocks such as contagion effect from South east financial crisis and appreciation of Japanese yen Although all the causes for the crisis are closely related with each other addressing the causes separately would give people better understanding of the context On Nov 1997 Korea faced the IMF crisis or also known as the financial crisis which caused severe damage to the Korean economy The new OECD member was reduced from being the world's eleventh largest economy to an economy surviving on overnight loans from the international money markets The won the Korean currency fell by more than 50 percent against the US dollar Also KOSPI the Korea Composite Stock Price Index fell by thirty percent and the short term interest rate shot up to forty percent per year Consequently on Dec 1997 Korea called the IMF for rescue owing 58.3 billion of financial aid As shown in table 1 and 2 in the appendix 1 Korea had performed continual rapid GDP growth at the rate of 7.8 percent per year in average from 1960 to 1997 Economic Crisis and Korea/Taiwan Makoto Abe, Yukihito Satō, Mamoru Nagano, 1999

Crisis in Korea Tim Beal, 2011-09-15 The South Korean warship Cheonan was sunk in mysterious circumstances on March 26 2010 The remarkable events that followed are analyzed by Tim Beal and woven into a larger study of the increasingly volatile relations between North and South Korea and US concern about the rise of China South Korea's stance towards the North has hardened significantly since the new conservative government came to power Beal argues that the South moved quickly to use the sinking of the Cheonan to put international pressure on the North even before the cause of the sinking had been established The United States followed suit by attempting to pressure China into condemning North Korea The media reports at the time presented an open and shut case of unprovoked North Korean aggression but the evidence points towards the accidental triggering of a South Korean mine as the cause and South Korean fabrication to incriminate the North With the South bent on forcing the fall of the North's regime with US help and China unlikely to stand idly by this book offers an essential guide to the key factors behind the crisis and possible solutions New Millennium South Korea Jesook

Recurring Economic Crisis in Korea Jong Kyu Lee,Sanghack Lee,2008 There exists a large volume of literature on Korean success in economic development However Korea has experienced several economic crises in the development process While the financial crisis in 1997 has received a substantial amount of attention in the mass media and in the academic as well Korea had not been immune to economic crisis prior to the 1997 financial crisis This book reviews the experiences of economic crises and their resolutions in Korea since 1960s The book examines each crisis and concludes that the factors that caused one previous crisis later brought about another crisis repeatedly This indicates that the measures to resolve the previous crises were ultimately ineffective in the sense that the fundamental causes for the economic crisis had remained unresolved and as a result recurrence of the crisis has not been prevented Catch-up and Crisis in Korea Wontack

Korea in the Cross Currents R. Myers, 2001-05-03 The Korean peninsula underwent a continuous number of earth shaking events in the twentieth century although it is generally out of the earthquake zone Jutting off the extreme northeast edge of the Eurasian landmass and with a combined population of nearly seventy million people North and South Korea are situated among China Japan and Russia They are also profoundly influenced by the United States because of the circumstances of the Korean War 1950 1953 The issues of war and peace left over from the Korean war remain unresolved these two separate states are the residue of the Cold War This anomaly still poses ominous prospects for war or peace in Asia and American national security interests Focusing on the last hundred years of Korea's long history and its particular relationship with China one is in a position both to understand and marvel at the events of this century on the Korean peninsula At the same time the complexity of the division of the country into North and South Korea not just a perennial struggle between good and evil although that is certainly part of the story places the future at risk There was one terrible war that divided the 20th century in half and there are threats of more trouble to come This study of the history of the past century will provide some answers and open the way to informed speculations Economic Crisis and Dual Transition in Korea Sŏn-hyŏk Kim, Sunhyuk Kim, 2004
