Methods of Critical Discourse Analysis Professor Ruth Wodak,Michael Meyer,2001-10-25 This book is designed as an introduction to Critical Discourse Analysis CDA and gives an overview of the various theories and methods associated with this sociolinguistic approach It also introduces the reader to the leading figures in CDA and the methods to which they are most closely related The text aims to provide a comprehensive description of the individual methods an understanding of the theories to which methods refer and a comparative treatment of each of these methods so that students may be able to determine which is the most appropriate to select for their particular research question Given the balance between theory and application plus the intended audience no previous knowledge of CDA is assumed Methods of Critical Discourse Analysis should be useful reading for both students and researchers in the fields of linguistics sociology social psychology and the social sciences in general

A New Agenda in (critical) Discourse Analysis Ruth Wodak,Paul Anthony Chilton,2005-01-01 Critical Discourse

Analysis CDA has established itself over the past two decades as an area of academic activity in which scholars and students from many different disciplines are involved. It is a field that draws on social theory and aspects of linguistics in order to understand and challenge the discourses of our day. It is time for A New Agenda in the field. The present book is essential for anyone working broadly in the field of discourse analysis in the social sciences. The book includes often critical re-assessments of CDA's assumptions and methods while proposing new route maps for innovation. Practical analyses of major issues in discourse analysis are part of this agenda setting volume.

On Discourse Analysis in Classrooms David Bloome, 2008-09-28. This book in the NCRL Collection provides an introductory discussion of discourse analysis of language and literacy events in classrooms. The authors introduce approaches to discourse analysis in a way that redefines traditional topics and provokes the imagination of researchers. For those who have limited knowledge of discourse analysis, this book will help generate new questions about literacy events in classrooms. For those familiar with this research perspective, it will map diverse new approaches.

Handbook of Feminist Research Sharlene Nagy Hesse-Biber, 2007. The topic feminist research has too often been neglected in standard research methods books. The Handbook of Feminist Research represents the establishment of a new tradition or paradigm in viewing how the research process is implemented. Feminist researchers bring unique epistemological and methodological perspectives to the research process. Feminists' approach to methodology allows for new types of questions about women's lives and those of other marginalized groups to be addressed within their respective fields of research. This Handbook stresses the interconnections between epistemology, methodology, and methods. They are not de-linked from each other but work together in dynamic ways to produce new knowledge, and this openness itself is also characteristic of how feminist researchers approach their work. Feminists engage synergistically with all three aspects of the research process: epistemology, methodology, and method. Through a synergistic connection between these elements of research, epistemology, methodology, and method, we find that feminist research often shapes new research endeavors that are greater than the sum of their parts. In other words, while traditional research employs these components of research, the synergistic engagement of these components in feminist research questions the status quo, aiming to raise our consciousness about how we do research. Looking at the selections provided in this Handbook, we are able to look at feminist research, its implementation, synergistic use of epistemology, methodology, and method, and the resulting qualities of feminist research in practice.

Drawing multimodality's bigger picture: Metalanguages and corpora for multimodal analyses Janina Wildfeuer, Claudia Lehmann, 2024-07-30. Multimodality has most recently been described no longer as a research field or discipline on its own but rather as a stage of development within a field. Bateman 2022a: 49. The realization that 1) many different fields and disciplines now enter their own multimodal phase with new interest in multimodal phenomena and that 2) these disciplines all commit to the development of multimodality research with their own theoretical principles and methodological tools brings with it not only an immense breadth of potential analytical objects but also many new meta methodological issues We need to find ways of combining insights from the variously imported theoretical and methodological backgrounds brought along by previous non multimodal stages of any contributing disciplines Bateman 2022a 49 At the same time the search for a meta methodology for multimodal analyses is pushed further by the recent trend towards more empirical approaches to multimodal phenomena and the development and use of larger multimodal corpora that just as well require theoretical and methodological refinements We need to develop ways of strengthening claims with robustly applicable methods which nevertheless remain firmly anchored theoretically Bateman 2022b 64 For a productive handling of these issues disciplinary triangulation and finding a common language or metalanguage Maton newest results from data collection methods and multimodal corpus analyses that expand the current quantitative work by e g applying existing theories and methods to larger datasets or exploring the newest communication technologies We are particularly interested in seeing how works addressing these aspects contribute to finding ways of productive triangulation and integration for and within a meta methodology for multimodality research This Research Topic aims to bring together scholars from a variety of disciplines interested in multimodality research to review explore and advance the contributions that John Bateman as one of the key figures in multimodality research has made to both theory and method building as well as to the driving forward of multimodal empirical and corpus analyses We welcome contributions that for example critically address the theoretical and methodological advancements that John Bateman has made with regard to the notions of semiotic mode discourse semantics genre textuality etc apply one of the many approaches that John Bateman has developed for the empirical analysis of multimodal artefacts e g the GeM model for page based documents his work on multimodal film and audio visual analysis and the discourse semantics and or annotation approach to visual narratives to larger corpora or currently newly developing communicative situations expand on one of the abovementioned aspects with new ideas and insights from disciplines that have not yet been included in multimodality research
