political narratives that were formed in dialogue with both global discourses and local political arguments The United Nations Trusteeship Territory of Tanganyika now mainland Tanzania serves as a compelling example of these processes Starting in 1945 and culminating with the Arusha Declaration of 1967 Emma Hunter explores political argument in Tanzania's public sphere to show how political narratives succeeded when they managed to combine promises of freedom with new forms of belonging at local and national level

History of Political Thought Raymond Garfield Gettell, 1924

Paradoxes of Religious Toleration in Early Modern Political Thought John Christian Laursen, Maria Jose Villaverde, 2012-06-21

In today's developed world much of what people believe about religious toleration has evolved from crucial innovations in toleration theory developed in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Thinkers from that period have been rightly celebrated for creating influential liberating concepts and ideas that have enabled many of us to live in peace However their work was certainly not perfect In this enlightening volume John Christian Laursen and Mar a Jos Villaverde have gathered contributors to focus on the paradoxes blindspots unexpected flaws or ambiguities in early modern toleration theories and practices Each chapter explores the complexities complications and inconsistencies that came up in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries as people grappled with the idea of toleration In understanding the weaknesses contradictions and ambivalences in other theories they hope to provoke thought about the defects in ways of thinking about toleration in order to help in overcoming similar problems in contemporary toleration theories
