

The background of the cover is a grayscale photograph. The upper portion shows a dark, textured surface, possibly a sky or a close-up of a material. The lower portion features a scientific instrument, likely a goniometer or a similar device for measuring angles, with a circular scale and a horizontal arm. Below the instrument, there is a map or a technical drawing showing a grid of lines and some text, which appears to be a topographical or geological map. The overall image has a vintage, scientific feel.
