Handbook of Research on Remote Work and Worker Well-Being in the Post-COVID-19 Era Wheatley, Daniel, Hardill, Irene, Buglass, Sarah, 2021-04-16 With the introduction of policies to combat COVID 19 far greater numbers of employees across the globe including those with limited job autonomy have moved to undertake their entire job at home. Although challenging in the current climate embracing these flexible modes of work such as working at home including relevant investment in technology to enable this will not only deliver potential organizational benefits but also increase the adaptability of the labor market in the short and longer terms. Although perhaps not the central concern of many in the current climate good home based work is achievable and perhaps even a solution to the current work based dilemma created by COVID 19 and should be a common goal for individuals organizations and society. Research also has shifted to focus on the routines of workers organizational performance and well being of companies and their employees along with reflections on the ways in which these developments may influence and alter the nature of paid work into the post COVID 19 era. The Handbook of Research on Remote Work and Worker Well Being in the Post COVID 19 Era focuses on the rapid expansion of remote working in response to the global COVID 19 pandemic and the impacts it has had on both employees and businesses. The content of the book progresses understanding and raises awareness of the benefits and challenges faced by large scale movements to remote working considering the wide array of different ways in which the large scale movement to remote working is impacting working lives and the economy. This book covers how different fields of work are responding and implementing remote work along with providing a presentation of how work occurs in digital spaces and the impacts on different topics such as gender dynamics and virtual togetherness. It is an ideal reference book for HR professionals business managers executives entrepreneurs policymakers researchers students practitioners academicians and business professionals interested in the latest research on remote working and its impacts.

Literacies in Times of Disruption

Bronwyn T. Williams, 2024-06-27 The wide ranging disruptions of the COVID 19 pandemic altered the experiences of place technology time and school for students. This book explores how students responses to these extraordinary times shaped their identities as learners and writers as well as their perceptions of education. This book traces the voices of a diverse group of university students from first year to doctoral students over the first two years of the pandemic. Students discussed the effects of having their homes forced to serve as classrooms work and living spaces as they also navigated much of school and life through their digital screens. The affective and embodied experiences of this disruption and uncertainty and the memories and narratives constructed from those experiences challenged and remade students relationships with place digital media and school itself. Understanding students perceptions of these times has implications for imagining innovative and empathetic approaches to literacy and learning going forward.
