resolution in five different cultures Conflict resolution is seen as an emerging discipline Criminology as Peacemaking Harold E. Pepinsky, Richard Quinney, 1991 Criminology has traditionally been a military science a science of war The criminal element is the enemy Repression and restraint are the primary tools of criminal justice and criminologists study how to make those tools effective in the war on crime We are beginning to realize that this is a war against ourselves and one that we are losing Our inability to make peace with crime and criminals is reflected in the paucity of our daily personal relations where we live by domination and discipline where forgiveness and mercy are seen as naive surrender to victimization The essays in this volume propose peacemaking as an effective alternative to the war on crime They range from studies of the intellectual roots of the peacemaking tradition to concrete examples of peacemaking in the community with special attention to feminist peacemaking traditions and women's experience Summary Report & Papers Presented at the Seminar on Conflict Management Mechanism, for Selected Students of Nigerian Universities, 29th January-2nd February, 1993, Ota, Nigeria, 1993 The OAU (AU) and OAS in Regional Conflict Management Thomas A. Imobighe, 2003 This study analyses the pervasive and apparently intractable intensification of conflict around the world in the wake of the Cold War and the failures and limitations of multilateral organisations such as the UN and the African Union to achieve their stated objectives It makes recommendations so that these organisations can make more assertive and positive contributions to conflict reduction Specifically on the OAU AU the author illustrates that the African Union is not fundamentally different from its predecessor and that both have failed to implement practical measures designed to build confidence and regional integration which he argues must be an essential component of conflict prevention and peace building The author is an expert in International Relations and Director of the Centre for Strategic and Development Studies Ambrose Alli University Ekpoma Nigeria Conflict Management and Problem Solving Dennis J.D. Sandole, Ingrid Sandole-Staroste, 1987-10-01 Violent conflicts exist at many levels throughout the modern world and their influence extends in varying degrees to all aspects of everyday living Ways of responding to conflicts are especially important therefore to all professionals and policy makers who deal with human relations where conflict can be a major feature This book is a unique presentation of the views of practitioners theorists and researchers from a variety of disciplines looking at conflict resolution It looks at constructive alternatives to the traditional ways of dealing with conflict providing solutions which fall outside the usual win lose parameters It is also a state of the art examination of the newly emerging field of conflict management which is currently gaining ground as a specific area of study in the United States throughout the world Contents Part I Conflict Management Generic Theory Research and Practice Part II Conflict Management Interpersonal to International Levels Part III Conflict Management The International Level Part IV Conflict Management Generic Theory Research and Practice Revisited Mediation, Citizen Empowerment, and Transformational Politics Edward W. Schwerin, 1995-04-30 This provocative book develops empowerment theory in the context of community mediation Schwerin uses a case study of a large urban community mediation program to explore the empowerment concept and to assess widely believed hypotheses about empowerment and community mediation The major contributions of this work to Transformational Politics and the community mediation movement include the development and elaboration of empowerment theory the analysis of mediation ideology mediation training and mediation process and the exploration of the linkage between community mediation and personal and social transformation Conflict, Negotiation and Dispute Resolution Sung Hee Kim,1991 New Approaches to International Mediation Christopher Roger Mitchell,Keith Webb,K. Webb,1988-11-17 This collection of twelve essays examines the use of mediation in intranational as well as international disputes so that parallels and similarities between various approaches could be emphasized and the whole approach viewed as a universal means of managing human conflict Initial chapters treat mediation as a concept beginning with an analysis by editors Mitchell and Webb entitled Mediation in International Relations An Evolving Tradition Other contributors examine the Falklands Malvinas conflict outline lessons from the South Tyrol on third party mediation in national minority disputes and analyze mediation attempts by the World Council of Churches in the Sudan Civil War South African initiatives and the use of hypergames as an aid to mediation are also discussed A concluding essay on Paradigms Movements and Shifts as indicators of social invention concludes the volume The editors introduction attempts to link the various topics and to place each contribution within the overall approach and philosophy of the book Innovations are characterized into three types innovation in the applications of mediatory processes innovation of technique with the development of new forms of mediation and innovation of practitioner with new organizations and individuals acting as intermediaries The interdisciplinary approach of this work and the efforts of its editors to provide a broad analytical framework for the study of mediation will make this volume useful for political science and history courses It will also serve as a useful guide to policymakers and diplomats Developmental Related Conflict Management and Its Mechanisms Ming Chee Ang,2003 International Journal of Peace Studies ,2003
