The postsocialist contemporary joins a growing body of scholarship debating the definition and nature of contemporary art. It comes to these debates from a historicist perspective taking as its point of departure one particular art programme initiated in Eastern Europe by the Hungarian American billionaire George Soros. First implemented in Hungary the Soros Center for Contemporary Art (SCCA) expanded to another eighteen ex socialist countries throughout the 1990s. Its mission was to build a western open society by means of art. This book discusses how network managers and artists participated in the construction of this new social order by studying the programme's rise, evolution, impact and broader ideological and political consequences. Rather than recounting a history, it engages critically with contemporary art as the aesthetic paradigm of late capitalist market democracy.
