Continuous Ambulatory Peritoneal Dialysis:

Procedures for Continuous Ambulatory Peritoneal Dialysis (CAPD). ,1979 Continuous Ambulatory Peritoneal Dialysis - ECAB Amit Gupta,2013-01-10 Continuous ambulatory peritoneal dialysis CAPD was introduced by Popovich et al in 1976 with 4 6 exchanges per day and long dwell time between the exchanges Later a group from Seattle used the combination of cyclic and automated PD in their patients and then it was called as continuous automated ambulatory peritoneal dialysis CAAPD Later in 1981 this technique was given the name continuous cycling peritoneal dialysis CCPD by Diaz Buxo Currently over 130 000 patients are on CAPD worldwide and it is the most popular form of peritoneal dialysis This book on continuous ambulatory peritoneal dialysis is designed to address the various clinical decision questions supported by typical clinical scenarios with which all readers will be able to identify Thus it provides an excellent opportunity to widen one s perspective in this area CAPD Update Jack W. Moncrief,Robert P. Popovich,1981 Continuous Ambulatory Peritoneal Dialysis (CAPD). K. T. Woo,1987 The Effectiveness and Costs of Continuous Ambulatory Peritoneal Dialysis (CAPD) William B. Stason,1985 CAPD Anthony R. Zappacosta,Susan T. Perras,1984 The effectiveness and costs of continuous ambulatory peritoneal dialysis (CAPD) , Continuous Ambulatory Peritoneal Dialysis in the USA A.S. Lindblad,J.W. Novak,K.D. Nolph,2012-12-06 The Final Report of the USA CAPO Registry summarizes eight years of observation and analysis that reflects the experiences of 485 clinical centers and over 25 000 CAPO patients As such it offers a wealth of information available here for the first time to interested parties around the world Because the National Institutes of Health was quick to see the potential of CAPO as a promising therapy for patients with end stage renal disease the Registry project was begun soon after its introduction into clinical practice in the USA Accordingly the Registry offered the nephrology community in the United States a special opportunity to study this emerging new therapy in some detail an opportunity not previously available for any other form of dialysis As will be seen in this report the result of this early and intensive research effort has been the development of a vast amount of clinically important information regarding the utilization safety and efficacy of this important dialytic therapy Continuous Ambulatory Peritoneal Dialysis G.R. Catto,2012-12-06 For more than a generation haemodialysis has been the principal method of treating patients with both acute and chronic renal failure Initially developments and improvements in the system were highly technical and relevant to only a relatively small number of specialists in nephrology More recently as advances in therapy have demonstrated the value of haemofiltration in the intensive therapy unit and haemoperfusion for certain types of poisoning the basic principles of haemodialysis have been perceived as important in many areas of clinical practice In this volume the potential advantages of bicarbonate haemodialysis are objectively assessed the technical and clinical aspects of both haemofiltration and haemoperfusion discussed and the continuing problems associated with such extra corporeal circuits analysed All the chapters have been written by recognized experts in their field The increasing availability of highly technical facilities for appropriately selected patients should ensure that the information contained in the book is relevant not only to nephrologists but to all practising clinicians

The Fourth International Congress of Peritoneal Dialysis was held in Venice Italy June 29 to July 2 1987 By this time peritoneal dialysis had emerged as a treatment for a substantial fraction of patients with end stage renal disease and countless numbers of patients with acute renal failure This treatment is now practiced worldwide and is the life sustaining treatment for about 40 000 patients with chronic renal failure representing 15 to 20% of dialysis therapy in about 1000 centers It is not surprising therefore that the number of health professionals engaged in the investigation and the application of the treatment has also grown exponentially The First International Symposium on Peritoneal Dialysis organized by Dr A Treviño Becerra in Chapala Mexico in 1978 brought together a group of pioneers when continuous ambulatory peritoneal dialysis was in its infancy In 1981 Dr G M Gahl chaired the Second Symposium in West Berlin when the technique and professional interest were growing considerably By 1984 when Dr I F Winchester and I organized the Third Symposium the presented papers exceeded 100 and there were about 1000 attendees At that time it was deemed appropriate to form a more organized group and the International Society for Peritoneal Dialysis was founded One of the first actions of the Society was to choose from among several applicants Dr

Chronic Ambulatory Peritoneal Dialysis (CAPD) and Chronic Cycling Peritoneal Dialysis (CCPD) in Children Richard N. Fine, 2012-12-06

During the past decade there has been a renaissance of interest in the use of peritoneal dialysis as a primary dialytic modality for the treatment of children with end stage renal disease ESRD The development of the technique of continuous ambulatory peritoneal dialysis CAPD and continuous cycling peritoneal dialysis CCPD has markedly changed the approach to children requiring dialytic therapy The availability of these techniques has facilitated prolonged dialysis in infants and has for the first time given pediatric nephrologists in many areas of the world an opportunity to consider dialysis in children afflicted with ESRD I have enlisted the collaboration of colleagues from Europe South America Canada and the United States in compiling this multidisciplinary text which hopefully contains the most up to date comprehensive information regarding the use of CAPD CCPD in children It is my hope that every nephrologist pediatric and adult nephrology nurse pediatric and adult nephrology technician or allied health professional dealing with children who require these therapeutic modalities will be able to resolve immediately any confounding clinical or technical issues that arise by using the information contained in this text Demographic data on the use of CAPD CCPD in children in Europe is provided from the EDTA Registry and in the United States from the National Peritoneal Dialysis Registry The particular problems encountered in the use of CAPD in children in developing countries is detailed by Dr Grunberg and his colleagues in Uruguay

Living with Continuous Ambulatory Peritoneal Dialysis (CAPD) Lisa Marion Keeping, 1999 Automated Peritoneal Dialysis Claudio Ronco, 1999-01-01 While continuous ambulatory peritoneal dialysis CAPD has been the standard peritoneal procedure since the seventies different schedules of automated peritoneal dialysis APD have emerged during the eighties Today APD is considered a valuable tool in the management of ESRD patients together with CAPD and hemodialysis However despite its frequent use APD has not yet been well assessed and most pathophysiological and clinical studies on PD refer to CAPD In this book major experts in the field therefore discuss and evaluate the insights gained on APD up to now presenting a comprehensive review of all experimental technical and clinical aspects related to the various treatments grouped under the definition of APD The recent developments presented are divided into four sections membrane permeability transport mechanisms and kinetic modeling applied to APD prescription and adequacy of different APD treatment schedules dialysis machines and solutions for APD and lastly different clinical aspects such as the possibility to maintain APD program and residual renal function Physicians involved in ESRD care renal fellows and scientists both in the academic world and in the hospital setting will undoubtedly profit from this timely publication
