Lawfully Using Autonomous Weapon Technologies Jonathan Kwik, 2024-08-02 This monograph provides a practical and operational perspective to the question of how to lawfully employ autonomous weapon systems AWS from the point of view of the technology's end users field commanders While there is international consensus that targeting rules such as proportionality and precautions must be respected when using AWS there is legal and practical ambiguity as to how to translate this normative commitment into practice How are commanders in the field when guns are already blazing expected to exercise command and control when ordering AWS attacks and ensure that their targeting obligations remain fulfilled The book discusses how commanders can use existing targeting frameworks to ensure that their use of AWS remains in compliance with the rules governing the conduct of hostilities It invites the reader to step into the shoes of the military commander with all the operational pressure and uncertainty inherent to this position and explores amongst others How to maintain control of AWS throughout a targeting cycle How to make informed and reasoned deployment decisions by analysing information related to the technical parameters of the AWS the characteristics of the operational environment and enemy countermeasures Under which circumstances AWS may not be used under targeting rules such as indiscriminate attack proportionality and the duty to cancel suspend What extra precautionary measures unique to AWS technology can and should be employed When it is militarily desirable to employ AWS over other alternatives and Under what circumstances criminal liability may be attributed for AWS related harm It offers both academic and practical outputs new legal and doctrinal insights on the technology that is useful for future legal developments and workable recommendations and efficient flowcharts that can be adopted by commanders military organisations or policymakers to ensure IHL compliant deployment of AWS Dr Jonathan Kwik is a researcher at the T M C Asser Institute in The Hague specialised in artificial intelligence and targeting law and is a member of the Board of Experts of the Asia Pacific Journal of International Humanitarian Law and destroy targets without intervention by a human operator Fighting Machines explores the relationship between lethal autonomous weapons LAWS the concept of human dignity and international law Much of this analysis speaks to three fundamental and related problems When a LAWS takes a human life is that killing a violation of human dignity Can states and non state actors use LAWS in accordance with international law And are there certain responsibilities of human decision making during wartime that we should not delegate to machines In the book Dan Saxon argues that the use of LAWS to take human life constitutes a violation of human dignity Rather than concentrating on the victims of the use of lethal force Saxon instead focuses on the technology and relevant legal principles and rules to advance several propositions First as LAWS operate at increasingly greater speeds their use will undermine the opportunities for and the value of human reasoning and judgment Second by transferring responsibility for reasoning and judgment about the use of lethal force to computer software the use of LAWS violates the dignity of the soldiers commanders and law enforcement officers who historically have made such decisions and therefore breaches international law Third weapon designs that facilitate teamwork between humans and autonomous systems are necessary to ensure that humans and LAWS can operate interdependently so that individuals can fulfil their obligations under international law including the preservation of their own dignity and ensure that human reasoning and judgment are available for cognitive functions better suited to humans than machines Fighting Machines speaks to the fields of international humanitarian law human rights criminal law and legal philosophy It will also be of interest to non lawyers especially military officers government policy makers political scientists and international relations scholars as well as roboticists and ethicists
