Competition in Religious Life Jay Newman, 2006-01-01 In his latest work on the social consequences of religious commitment Jay Newman reveals in clear and concise fashion the extent to which competitiveness is an essential feature of religious life His assessment charts various classical strategies that have been proposed for either eliminating such competitiveness or directing it into appropriate channels After a detailed philosophical analysis of the nature and value of competition the author examines competition between denominations and within denominations and considers religious competition in some of its less obvious forms In the process of evaluating the methods for curbing religious competition advocated by such thinkers as Spinoza and Lessing as well as by modern ecumenists the author points the way to a general approach to religious competition that minimizes destructive religious conflicts without ignoring the positive value of religious competition occurred that are reported in sacred texts How could God intervene in the world today to answer someone's prayer This book looks for evidence that there is a spiritual reality in addition to a material reality and finds ample evidence that both realities are part of the universe in which we live It is the rapid development of science over the past three hundred years and the much slower evolution of religious thought that is the source of today's conflicts A satisfactory understanding of our universe requires a partnership between science and religion in which these major areas of thought and knowledge each learn from the other This understanding must begin with mutual agreement as to what the major components of the universe are The existence of material reality is not disputed This book provides a survey of what else exists For each nonmaterial entity considered the evidence is examined for consistency with the findings of science Many inanimate entities are investigated including mathematical objects laws of nature love and justice Animate nonmaterial entities investigated include a supreme spiritual being and human souls A supreme spiritual being need not be a personal god and reaching that conclusion requires careful analysis of additional data from a variety of sources Special attention is given to the relationship between Jesus and this personal God Following the survey of nonmaterial reality this book investigates some of the additional implications of science for religious belief and for religious practice Topics covered here include implications of science as they relate to the effectiveness of prayer revelation religious ritual the focus of religious life and the afterlife
