Scenography as New Ideology in Contemporary Curating and the Notion of Staging in Exhibitions Margaret Choi Kwan Lam, 2013-12-19 Master s Thesis from the year 2013 in the subject Art Miscellaneous grade Distinction Kingston University London Kingston University London in Partnership with the Design Museum London U K course MA Curating Contemporary Design language English abstract In the frontier of the exhibition scene a significant phenomenon is observed that a contemporary artistic staging practice called scenography has grew out from the theatre context and keeps expanding its influence in the exhibition context in recent time

Scenography has been acting as a transformative force to reform the traditional exhibitionary complex and consequently this has led to an unprecedented intersection where scenography meets contemporary curating which further informs a radical ideological shift. This paper aims to exploit a new land of discussion to look into this intersection between scenographic practice and contemporary curating its mergence and the subsequent revolution it has caused. By seeing museums and exhibition spaces as metaphorical stages it fundamentally reconfigures the infrastructure of curating practices in terms of a shift in authorship architectural embodiment of ideas field of experience layered narrative dramaturgy and the hybrid expressions of new media. Three case studies will demonstrate scenography's wide ranged capacities and various methodologies in dealing with contemporary issues. Cases include BMW Museum Reopened in 2008, Cultures of the World Opened in 2010 and Leonardo's Last Supper A Vision by Peter Greenaway 2008. 2010. Respectively they prove scenography's overarching influence of acting as a brandscape as a site of cultural mediation and as interference and discourse. The whole discussion cuts through major discourses in the field both responding to the increasing awareness of the notion of staging experiences in the rise of experience economy and the expanding notion of curating in parallel.

Handbook of Intercultural Training: Area studies in intercultural training Dan Landis, Richard W. Brislin, 1983 Taking Archaeology Out of Heritage Emma Waterton, Laurajane Smith, 2009. Archaeology has on the whole tended to dominate the development of public policies and practices applicable to what is often referred to as heritage. This book aims to examine the conflation of heritage with archaeology that has occurred as a result. To do so it asks whether archaeology can usefully contribute to critical understandings of heritage which the volume contends must consider heritage both in terms of what it is and the cultural social and political work it does in contemporary societies. Archaeologists have been very successful in protecting what they perceive to be their database a success that owes much to the development and maintenance of a suite of heritage management practices that work to legitimize their privileged access to and control of that database. However is archaeological data actually heritage. Moreover does archaeological knowledge offer a meaningful reflection of the historic environment in terms of the uses values and associations it carries for the various and different communities or publics that engage with that environment heritage. The volume brings together academic and field archaeologists academics from
