PETER MALONE (Coordinator), Discovering an Australian Theology (Homebush, N.S.W.: St Paul Publications, 1988). Pp. 238, Rrp. $AUD16.95.

A STORY, MARTIN BUBER HAS SAID, ought to be told so that it is itself a help. To prove this, he himself tells a story about his grandfather who was paralysed. Asked to tell a story about his teacher, he told how the holy Baal Shem Tov used to jump and dance when he was praying. While he was telling this story, his grandfather stood up and as he went on the story carried him away so much that he had to jump and dance to show how the master had done it. From that moment he was healed. That, Buber concludes, is how stories ought to be told. The story, that is to say, "is in itself an event; it has the quality of a sacred action. It is more than a reflection – the sacred essence to which it bears witness continues to live in it. The wonder that is narrated becomes powerful once more".

Discovering Australian Theology, unfortunately, is not a story of this kind, though from time to time, especially in the first section, "Search", it promises to be. There are important insights; that being Australian, being part of this particular culture living at this particular time from the kind of past we have inherited and the kind of hopes we entertain, is our occasion of grace; that the beginning of true faith is conversion, and that it is in our actual day to day experience that we experience this conversion; and that one of the great signs of

The Development of Religion Irving King, 1910      Routledge International Handbook of Religion in Global Society Jayeel Cornelio, François Gauthier, Tuomas Martikainen, Linda Woodhead, 2020-11-29 Like any other subject the study of religion is a child of its time Shaped and forged over the course of the twentieth century it has reflected the interests and political situation of the world at the time As the twenty first century unfolds it is undergoing a major transition along with religion itself This volume showcases new work and new approaches to religion which work across boundaries of religious tradition academic discipline and region The influence of globalizing processes has been evident in social and cultural networking by way of new media like the internet in the extensive power of global capitalism and in the increasing influence of international bodies and legal instruments Religion has been changing and adapting too This handbook offers fresh insights on the dynamic reality of religion in global societies today by underscoring transformations in eight key areas Market and Branding Contemporary Ethics and Virtues Intimate Identities Transnational Movements Diasporic Communities Responses to Diversity National Tensions and Reflections on Religion These themes demonstrate the handbook's new topics and approaches that move beyond existing agendas Bringing together scholars of all ages and stages of career from around the world the handbook showcases the dynamism of religion in global societies It is an accessible introduction to new ways of approaching the study of religion practically theoretically and geographically      South-Pacific Journal of Mission Studies

, 2006      Primitive Culture; Researches Into the Development of Mythology, Philosophy, Religion, Language, Art, and Custom Edward Burnett Tylor, 1924      Tearfund and the Quest for Faith-Based Development Dena Freeman, 2019-08-19 This book gives an in depth analysis of the role of faith in the work of Tearfund a leading evangelical relief and development NGO that works in over 50 countries worldwide The study traces the changing ways that faith has shaped and influenced Tearfund's work over the organisation's 50 year history It shows how Tearfund has consciously grappled with the role of faith in its work and has invested considerable time and energy in developing an intentionally faith based approach to relief and development that in several ways is quite different to the approaches of secular relief and development NGOs The book charts the different perspectives and possibilities that were not taken and the internal discussions about theology development practices and humanitarian standards that took place as Tearfund worked out for itself what it meant to be a faith based relief and development organisation There is a growing academic literature about religion and development as well as increasing interest from development ministries of many Northern governments in understanding the role of religion in development and the specific challenges and benefits involved in working with faith based organisations However there are very few studies of actual faith based organisations and no book length detailed studies showing how such an organisation operates in practice and how it integrates its faith into its work In documenting the story of Tearfund the book provides important insights into the practice and ethos of faith based organisations which will be of interest to other FBOs and to researchers of religion and development

Media Perceptions of Religious Changes in Australia Enqi Weng, 2019-12-05 This volume explores the contradiction between the news coverage given to issues of religion particularly since 2001 in relation to issues such as terrorism politics security and gender and the fact of its apparent decline according to Census data Based on media research in Australia and offering comparisons with the UK the author demonstrates that media discussions overlook the diversity that exists within religions particularly the country's main religion Christianity and presents religion according to specific interpretations shaped by race class and gender which in turn result in very limited understandings of religion itself Drawing on understandings of the sacred as a non negotiable value present in religious and secular form Media Perceptions of Religious Changes in Australia calls for a broader sociological perspective on religion and will appeal to scholars of sociology and media studies with interests in religion and public life
