Developing Countries and the WTO Bernard M. Hoekman, Will Martin, 2003 This volume brings together a selection of papers that were prepared as background analyses for a collaborative research capacity building project focusing on the WTO negotiating agenda

Symbolic Power in the World Trade Organization Matthew Eagleton-Pierce, 2013 Questions of power are central to understanding global trade politics and no account of the World Trade Organization WTO can afford to avoid at least an acknowledgment of the concept A closer examination of power can help us to explain why the structures and rules of international commerce take their existing forms how the actions of countries are either enabled or disabled and what distributional outcomes are achieved However within conventional accounts there has been a tendency to either view power according to a single reading namely the direct coercive sense or to overlook the concept entirely focusing instead on liberal cooperation and legalization In this book Matthew Eagleton Pierce shows that each of these approaches betray certain limitations which in turn have cut short or worked against more critical appraisals of power in transnational capitalism To expand the intellectual space the book investigates the complex relationship between power and legitimation by drawing upon Pierre Bourdieu's notion of symbolic power A focus on symbolic power aims to alert scholars to how the construction of certain knowledge claims are fundamental to and entwined within the material struggle for international trade Empirically the argument uncovers and plots the recent strategies adopted by Southern countries in their pursuit of a more equitable trading order By bringing together insights from political economy sociology and law Symbolic Power in the WTO not only enlivens and enriches the study of diplomatic practice within a major multilateral institution it also advances the broader understanding of power in world politics

Patenting of Pharmaceuticals and Development in Sub-Saharan Africa POKU ADUSEI, 2012-10-25 This book critically investigates the patent protection of medication in light of the threats posed by HIV AIDS malaria and tuberculosis epidemics to the citizens of countries in Sub Saharan Africa hereinafter SSA or Africa The book outlines the systemic problems associated with the prevailing globalized patent regime and the regime's inability to promote access to life saving medication at affordable prices in SSA It argues that for pharmaceutical patents to retain their relevance in SSA countries human development concepts must be integrated into global patent law and policy making An integrative approach implies developing additional public health and human development exceptions limitations to the exercise of patent rights with the goal of scaling up access to medication that can treat epidemics in SSA By drawing on multiple perspectives of laws institutions practices and politics the book suggests that SSA countries adopt an evidence based approach to implementing global patent standards in domestic jurisdictions This evidence based approach would include mechanisms like local need assessments and the use of empirical data to shape domestic patent law making endeavors The approach also implies revising patent rules and policies with a pro poor and pro health emphasis so that medication will be more affordable and accessible to the citizens of SSA countries It also suggests considering the opinions of individuals and pro access institutions in enacting crucial pieces of health related statutes in SSA countries The approach in this book is sensitive to the public health needs of the citizens affected by epidemics and to the imperative of building local manufacturing facilities for pharmaceutical research and development in SSA      World Trade and Development Report

2007 Research and Information System for the Non-aligned and Other Developing Countries,2007 The report evaluates the emerging world trading system as a consequence of multilateral trade negotiations The trends and asymmetries are examined from the perspective of developing countries in different sectors Problems are identified and policy options are suggested that can be pursued to build a responsive trading system      The Oxford Handbook on The World Trade
