Development And Social Diversity:

Development and Social Diversity Mary B. Anderson, 1996 Explores people's varied expectations of development

Cultural and Social Diversity and the Transition from Education to Work Guy Tchiboza, 2012-09-28 This edited volume provides multidisciplinary and international insights into the policy managerial and educational aspects of diverse students' transitions from education to employment. As employers require increasing global competence on the part of those leaving education, this research asks whether increasing multiculturalism in developed societies, often seen as a challenge to their cohesion, is in fact a potential advantage in an evolving employment sector. This is a vital and under-researched field and this new publication in Springer's Technical and Vocational Education and Training series provides analysis both of theory and empirical data submitted by researchers from nine nations including the USA, Oman, Malaysia, and countries in the European Union. The papers trace the origins of business demand for diversity in their workforce's skill set, including national, local, and institutional contexts. They also consider how social, demographic, cultural, religious, and linguistic diversity inform the attitudes of those seeking work and those seeking workers. With clear suggestions for future research, this work on a topic of rising profile will be read with interest by educators, policy makers, employers, and careers advisors.

The Economics of Immigration and Social Diversity Solomon W. Polachek, Carmel Chiswick, Hillel Rapoport, 2006-01-05 Part of The Research in Labor Economics series, this volume is a collection of papers dedicated to the memory of the late Tikva Lecker. Professor Lecker's many interests included topics in labor economics, women and the economy, the economics of Judaism, the economics of migration, and the economic experience of immigrants and their descendants.

Readings for Diversity and Social Justice Maurianne Adams, 2000 These essays include writings from Cornel West, Michael Omi, Audre Lorde, Gloria Anzaldúa, and Michelle Fine. The essays address the multiplicity and scope of oppressions ranging from ableism to racism and other less well-known social aberrations.

Development and Social Diversity, 1996 In this collection Naila Kabeer examines the meaning of gender relations in the contexts of development practice and of development institutions, a theme taken up by Lewis B. Dzimhiri in relation to refugee programmes and by Yezichalem Kassa and Feleke Tadele in diagnosing the needs of rural communities. Mark Gorman focuses on the needs of elderly people while Tom and Francesca Scanlon and Maria Luiza Nobre Lamarao describe the challenges of working with street children and adolescents. Shubi L. Ishemo argues against approaches to development and relief that are not culturally familiar to the people affected.
