and Qiao Franco deconstruct the concept of the Indo Pacific and offer a timely comparative and multidimensional exploration of the region's international relations. Addressing fundamental academic questions regarding the viability of the Indo Pacific as a regional conception, this book examines whether the Indo Pacific is a true regional community or a strategic invention driven by global rivalries and geopolitical interests. Drawing on a rich blend of International Relations, Security Studies, International Political Economy, Human and Political Geography, Cultural Studies, and Area Studies, the book investigates the key thematic areas that define the region's past, present, and future. They include a historical investigation of formation, enculturation, and demarcation of the region; colonization, decolonization, and construction of the modern state; conflicts and wars in trans-regional settings; regional economy and development; institutions and other modes of international or transnational cooperation; and cultures, societies, and identities within and across the Indo-Pacific countries. An essential read for students, scholars, and practitioners of international affairs who seek to make sense of one of the world's most dynamic and contested regions. Chapters 2, 3, and 5 of this book are freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonDerivatives 4.0 license.

Islam, Modernity and Entrepreneurship among the Malays P. Sloane, 1998-11-23. The book is based on original research on the entrepreneurial leaders in the Malay community and on the author's own participation in Malay business ventures. Sloane draws on her experience of working in Wall Street to analyse the ironies and contradictions in both the prevailing Western Asian and Malay definitions of entrepreneurship and the heroes of competing styles of capitalism.

Third World Cities In Global Perspective David Alden Smith, 1996-02-08. In this innovative book, David Smith ultimately links what happens on the ground in the neighborhoods where people live to the larger political and economic forces at work, putting these connections in a historical framework and using a case study approach. The societies of the world's underdeveloped countries are now undergoing an urban revolution that is drastically altering the fabric of their predominantly rural agrarian societies. Smith takes the emerging political economy perspective on urbanization with its focus on global inequality and dependency as the context for city growth in the Third World. This perspective allows Smith to critique the conventional ecological view of the city not by rejecting traditional analyses out of hand but by reformulating the crucial questions. The conventional ecological perspective assumes an equilibrium model where very rapid city growth and the various types of urban imbalances are transitional phases on the path to modernity; in contrast, the comparative political economy approach conceptualizes uneven development and inequality as an inevitable result of the expansion of the capitalist world system.
