Regional Trade And Economic Integration: Analytical Insights And Policy Options Ram Upendra Das, Piyadasa Edirisuriya, Anoop Swarup, 2012-05-21 The Asia Pacific region has emerged as a dominant player in trade and will continue to be an influential pole of world trade and economics with the center of gravity shifting to this region This book presents analytical insights into the various regional and bilateral trade agreements RTAs and their beneficial effects on bilateral trade and development It provides an incisive analysis and a roundup of all major RTAs and also presents an overview of all major agreements between the countries involved which might propel their trade flows and influence future economic engagements The book in a novel way also discusses possible obstacles that are encountered during the implementation of RTAs and circumvention routes once those taken into account could ensure the successful execution of the agreements The book dwells on the issue of regionalism and multilateralism with reference to General Agreements on Trade and Tariffs and World Trade Organisation

which have revolutionized the trade dynamics by opening up new areas of trade rules and formulating specific policy guidelines for the member countries to adhere to during trade negotiations. The book also provides new insights into some of the issues of negotiations such as sensitive lists, trade and investment cooperation, including trade in services, rules of origin, non-tariff barriers, anti-dumping, etc. The book also focuses on policy instruments that could convert trade gains to development gains. The existing economic cooperation arrangements in the region as well as those that are at various stages of study and negotiations, empirical insights and policy suggestions are elucidated in detail.

Comparative Studies on Regional and National Economic Development Hui Zhang, Yuxuan Tang, Tian Yi, 2023-05-11. This book is devoted to quantifying the role of the world's major economies in the international division from the perspective of global value chains and clarify the value cycle system between China and developed and developing economies. This book establishes a theoretical paradigm that conforms to the current world economic structure. That is, the world economic structure gradually shifts from a single cycle model centered on developed countries to a more complex dual circulation model. Furthermore, based on the analysis of the current world economic situation, it also analyzes the interaction between trade and investment and the synergistic effect of the Corridors under the Belt and Road Initiative. The first part of the book brings a better understanding of mutual relationships between trade and investment under the Belt and Road Initiative and broadens the research fields of relevant studies. Additionally, comprehensive and specific country research is particularly conducted in this book. By analyzing the economic indicators, reviewing social history and social economic development covering various countries along the Belt and Road, it provides deep exploration of the fields and approaches of the most potential cooperation under the purpose of Peace Development Cooperation and Win-Win. Therefore, this part draws a broad map of economic and cultures in order to provide a reference and assistance for promoting the Belt and Road Initiative. Fulfilling this vision, this book hopes to deepen the understanding of economic development of each relevant economy to encourage the participation of economies in regional connectivity.

Economic Cooperation Among Developing Countries Kanhiya Lal Chawla, 1991. Comparative Regional Systems Werner J. Feld, Gavin Boyd, 2016-06-06. Comparative Regional Systems: West and East Europe, North America, the Middle East, and Developing Countries is a comparative study of regional systems, namely West and East Europe, North America, the Middle East, and developing countries. This book examines the patterned and unpatterned forms of international activity through which states relate to the most important entities in world politics: their neighbors. The cooperative and conflictual behavior in international politics occurring within regional contexts is discussed with emphasis on the sources and forms of this behavior as well as the issues that contribute to it and those that it creates. This monograph is comprised of 15 chapters and opens with an analysis of clusters of variables that form linked patterns within each international region, paying particular attention to the developmental issues that appear to be posed in the various regions of world politics. The following chapters focus on social psychological factors in regional politics: regional patterns of economic cooperation political change in regional systems patterns of transregional relations and interactions between regional organizations in various parts of the world and the global system that may affect either the operation of the latter or influence actions and functions of the former The final chapter examines the problems and pitfalls of regional integration theories along with their inability to scientifically predict the pathways of regional development This text is designed to assist students professionals and the general public interested in international relations
