Developing New Financial Products:

Product Development in Islamic Banks Habib Ahmed, 2011-01-27 A systematic study of the process of developing Islamic financial products for banks Islamic banking began in the 1970s with the aim of providing financial services compatible with Islamic law Driven by market forces it has grown rapidly in Muslim countries and in international financial sectors It is projected to grow at an annual rate of 15 20% and a key factor determining this future growth is the availability of new products that will satisfy the needs of various segments of society While other texts discuss the basic principles and contracts used in Islamic banking and finance few discuss how these can be used to develop financial products This book fills that gap starting with the basic principles that form the building blocks of contemporary Islamic financial products and then discussing the more intricate issues relating to product development processes Key Features Discusses the different stages of the product development cycle in detail Includes case studies showing the structures of various products Critically evaluates the issues related to product development including the types of products used by Islamic banks and the approaches adopted in developing them The author is well positioned to write this text having been an economist at the Islamic Development Bank Group in Saudi Arabia 1999 2007

The Routledge Companion to Ethnic Marketing Ahmad Jamal, Lisa Peñaloza, Michel Laroche, 2015-06-19 The globalization of marketing has brought about an interesting paradox as the discipline becomes more global the need to understand cultural differences becomes all the more crucial This is the challenge in an increasingly international marketplace and a problem that the world's most powerful businesses must solve From this challenge has grown the exciting discipline of ethnic marketing which seeks to understand the considerable opportunities and challenges presented by cultural and ethnic diversity in the marketplace To date scholarship in the area has been lively but disparate This volume brings together cutting edge research on ethnic marketing from thought leaders across the world Each chapter covers a key theme reflecting the increasing diversity of the latest research including models of culture change parenting and socialization responses to web and advertising role of space and social innovation in ethnic marketing ethnic consumer decision making religiosity differing attitudes to materialism acculturation targeting and ethical and public policy issues The result is a solid framework and a comprehensive reference point for consumer researchers students and practitioners

Financial Integration in the European Monetary Union Sławomir Ireneusz Bukowski, 2019-11-21 This book introduces readers to the world of international financial markets and their integration on a global and regional scale The author presents the theoretical and practical issues concerning the processes of financial market integration with a particular focus on the monetary union The empirical research results are based on econometric modeling thus simplifying them for a non specialist audience who can instead concentrate on the author's conclusions which comprise the results of these complicated research methods The author outlines the role and functions of financial markets in the economy in particular the relationship between financial intermediaries and financial markets and tackles the question of integration of new EU member countries financial markets within the eurozone The integration of financial markets in an international context is inevitable and the author argues that we must learn how to benefit from it from in terms of economic growth This book will be a valuable resource for students of economics and finance particularly those studying financial management and international business and finance as well as professionals in these fields Further this book will be of interest to anyone looking to discover more about the problems of globalization and the integration of financial markets into the modern economy
