Reworking Tourism Jenny Cave, Dianne Dredge, 2020-07-29 There is a growing backlash against extractive and exploitative forms of tourism that have unleashed what some argue as unacceptable levels of change on local communities and environments Examples include the rise of overtourism the environmental impacts of the cruise sector and collaborative economy platforms that have contributed to concerns over housing affordability and availability Anti tourism activism is on the rise and the need to rethink the economic political and social organisation of tourism in a global world has never been more apparent It is increasingly clear that we need to rework the values underpinning tourism and visitor economies and move the focus from its traditional emphasis on profit jobs and growth towards new models of economic and social exchange This book gives voice to a growing movement of scholars activists and business leaders who acknowledge that we need to reinvent relationships between tourism production and consumption and between labour capital and resources In the Global North this exploration of alternative economic and political relationships in tourism has tended to be located at the margins of discussion The Global South has much to teach the Global North about alternative economic models different kinds of exchange new relationships between labour capital and resources and resilience Drawing from case studies in both the North and the South this edited collection explores how some are reworking tourism reshaping the economies of tourism and in the process how tourism can deliver social and economic wellbeing in a changing world Reworking Tourism will be of interest to scholars of tourism and development as well as tourism and economics The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Tourism Planning Development

Preparing a Nation? Brad Underhill, 2024-08-22 Preparing a Nation based on extensive archival research addresses perennial questions of Australian colonialism in Papua New Guinea To what extent did Australia prepare Papua New Guinea for independence And what were the policies and the ideologies behind colonial development implemented after World War II A key innovation of this book is to take these questions from policy desks in Canberra and Port Moresby to the villages of four administrative areas Chimbu Milne Bay Sepik and New Hanover How successful were Australian colonial planners in designing and implementing programs that could ameliorate the potential harm of market capitalism and develop new socioeconomic structures that would combine a disparate people into an imagined community capable of becoming an independent nation state in the far distant future Colonial intention is contrasted with Indigenous experience Bradley Underhill explores an Australian governmental tendency to prioritise colonial control over Indigenous autonomy in circumstances where subjugated people do not necessarily fit within an expected narrative of compliant or westernised native I expect it will become the standard reference for its subject which covers a pivotal aspect of Australia's colonial administration Bill Gammage Forthcoming Books Rose Army, 2000-06 Asia-Pacific Legal Development Gerry Ferguson, 1998-11-01 In this age of globalization many legal experts see evidence of swift global movement toward an eventual single world legal system Yet the trend to political and economic integration in some parts of the world is matched by the trend to disintegration in others where strong cultural and political resistance to external influences exists Asia Pacific Legal Development traces current and prospective developments in several legal systems of the Asia Pacific region to make sense of these trends and counter trends The contributing authors represent a wide variety of specialist expertise both public and private and together they encompass the three sectors that constitute a modern system of formal law the economic the behavioural and the civic Taking into account the opinions and perspectives of both indigenous and non indigenous experts on topics ranging from prostitution to constitutional law the book surveys how several ASEAN nations as well as Canada Australia and New Zealand are confronting social economic and legal change In the first three parts chapters are grouped along general sectoral lines to cover economic civic and behavioural themes while in the fourth cross sectoral contexts are addressed With the introduction and concluding chapter the editors provide an overall integrating framework as well as provocative insights into trends in legal development in the Asia Pacific region and on comparative legal research and writing in general Asia Pacific Legal Development is not only an exemplary model for cooperative and comparative legal research and scholarly pluralism but also a rich study of the increasingly relevant issue of convergence and divergence of legal systems with a unique Asian focus The Economics of Papua New Guinea's Tuna Fisheries Harry F.
