Day Of The Elephant:

Elephants and Savanna Woodland Ecosystems Christina Skarpe, Johan T. du Toit, Stein R. Moe, 2014-04-02 During the nineteenth century ivory hunting caused a substantial decrease of elephant numbers in southern Africa Soon after that populations of many other large and medium sized herbivores went into steep decline due to the rinderpest pandemic in the 1890s These two events provided an opportunity for woodland establishment in areas previously intensively utilized by elephants and other herbivores The return of elephants to currently protected areas of their former range has greatly influenced vegetation locally and the resulting potential negative effects on biodiversity are causing concern among stakeholders managers and scientists This book focuses on the ecological effects of the increasing elephant population in northern Botswana presenting the importance of the elephants for the heterogeneity of the system and showing that elephant ecology involves much wider spatiotemporal scales than was previously thought Drawing on the results of their research the authors discuss elephant caused effects on vegetation in nutrient rich and nutrient poor savannas and the potential competition between elephants on the one hand and browsers and mixed feeders on the other Ultimately this text provides a comprehensive review of ecological processes in African savannas covering long term ecosystem changes and human wildlife conflicts It summarises new knowledge on the ecology of the sub humid African savanna ecosystems to advance the general functional understanding of savanna ecosystems across moisture and nutrient gradients

Beyond the Crises: Zimbabwes Prospects for Transformation Tendai Murisa, Tendai Chikweche, 2015-12-01 Over the past years few African countries have been the focus of discussions and analyses generating a vast array of literature as much as

Zimbabwe The socioeconomic and political crises since the turn of the century have deeply transformed the country from the ideals of a vibrant freshly independent nation just two decades earlier These transformations have necessitated the call for the restructuring of Zimbabwean society polity and economy But this literature remains exclusively within the realm of academic thinking and theorising with no concerted effort to move beyond this by explicitly drawing out the policy implications Beyond the Crises Zimbabwe's Prospects for Transformation is a welcome addition to the academic and policy literature with a much broader and all embracing focus in terms of policy interventions By focusing on different aspects of social and economic justice Murisa and Chikweche go beyond initiating a broad discussion on these two key pillars of human development with a view to suggesting possible future directions of practical solutions and policy development for the attainment of inclusive social and economic justice for Zimbabweans Worth While Stories for Every Day Lawton Bryan Evans,1917 The History of the Battles and Adventures of the British, the Boers, and the Zulus, Etc. in Southern Africa, from the Time of Pharaoh Necho, to 1880 Duncan Campbell Francis Moodie,1888 To-day ,1894 Gateway ,1908 Our Darlings ,1896 Journal of the Royal Society of Arts ,1884 Hardwicke's Science-gossip Mordecai Cubitt Cooke,John Eller Taylor,1884 *Red berries; pictures and stories [ed.] by W.M.
