Deadline Every Minute:

The Nation's Newsbrokers: The rush to institution, from 1865 to 1920 Richard Allen Schwarzlose, 1989 Richard A Schwarzlose's long awaited two volume The Nation's Newsbrokers makes a major contribution to the history of journalism in the United States Schwarzlose traces the development of the Associated Press and the predecessors of United Press International from scattered beginnings in the 1840s to their emergence as a mature national institution in the World War I era Volume 2 studies the rapid growth of intercity news gathering and distribution after the Civil War including the deterioration into collusion among newsbrokers and changes in technology and reporting within the context of attempts to monopolize the flow of information

Reporting War Ray Moseley, 2017-02-21 This excellent wonderfully researched chronicle of WWII journalism explores the lives and work of embedded reporters across every theater of war Chris Ogden former Time magazine bureau chief in London Luminary journalists Ed Murrow Martha Gellhorn Walter Cronkite and Clare Hollingworth were among the young reporters who chronicled World War II's daily horrors and triumphs for Western readers In Reporting War fellow foreign correspondent Ray Moseley mines their writings to create an exhilarating parallel narrative of the war effort in Europe Pearl Harbor North Africa and Japan This vivid history also explores the lives methods and motivations of the courageous journalists who doggedly followed the action and the story often while embedded in the Allied armies Moseley's sweeping yet intimate history draws on newly unearthed material to offer a comprehensive account of the war Reporting War sheds much needed light on an abundance of individual stories and overlooked experiences including those of women and African American journalists which capture the drama as it was lived by reporters on the front lines of history

Late Edition Bob Greene, 2009-07-07 A loving and laughter filled trip back to a lost American time when the newspaper business was the happiest game in town In a warm affectionate true life tale New York Times bestselling author Bob Greene When We Get to Surf City Duty Once Upon a Town travels back to a place where when little more than a boy he had the grand good luck to find himself surrounded by a brotherhood and sisterhood of wayward misfits who on the mezzanine of a Midwestern building put out a daily newspaper that didn't even know it had already started to die In some American cities Greene writes famous journalists at mighty and world renowned papers changed the course of history with their reporting But at the Columbus Citizen Journal there was a willful rejection of grandeur these were overworked reporters and snazzy sportswriters nerve frazzled editors and insult spewing photographers who found pure joy in the fact that each morning they awakened to realize I get to go down to the paper again At least that is how it seemed in the eyes of the novice copyboy who saw romance in every grungy pastepot a symphony in the song of every creaking typewriter With current day developments in the American newspaper industry so grim and dreary Late Edition is a Valentine to an era that was gleefully cocky and seemingly free from care a wonderful story as bracing and welcome as the sound of a rolled up paper thumping onto the front stoop just after dawn

examining the newspaper industry in Argentina during the regime of Juan Domingo Perón. Traces how Perón managed to integrate almost the entire Argentine press into a state dominated media empire. Provided by publisher Newsmaker Patricia Beard, 2016-05-01. This is the story of one of the most important American newspapermen of the twentieth century. Roy Howard rose to prominence at the height of newspapers power and became a leader in the evolution of print news starting in 1908 when E. W. Scripps appointed him head of the fledgling United Press at age 25. Through his tenure as chairman of the Scripps Howard empire until 1952, As Howard expanded and modernized the business he landed some of the most important scoops between World War I and the Korean War. Eloquent, likeable and outgoing he headed one of only two coast to coast news concerns, Hearst being the other. An advisor to presidents and prime ministers Howard witnessed the most significant events of the time. A 1930 front page New York Times article named him one of the 59 men who rule America with John D. Rockefeller topping the list. Time magazine put him on the cover. The Saturday Evening Post lionized him. Even his enemies gave him plenty of coverage. The New Yorker excoriated him in a four part series although the author admitted that Howard's and Hearst's were the only American newspaper publishers whose photographs the average newspaper reader would recognize. With exclusive first time access to thousands of previously unpublished documents in the privately held Howard family archives, author Patricia Beard opens a rich mine of stories from one of the most volatile periods in history as revealed by the head of a newspaper empire at a time when the press both made and broke the news. Editor & Publisher, 1929. The fourth estate. The Nation's Newsbrokers Richard Allen Schwarzlose, 1989. Richard A. Schwarzlose's long awaited two volume The Nation's Newsbrokers makes a major contribution to the history of journalism in the United States. Schwarzlose traces the development of the Associated Press and the predecessors of United Press International from scattered beginnings in the 1840s to their emergence as a mature national institution in the World War I era. In Volume 1 Schwarzlose analyzes the problems of communication and transportation in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries and examines the news media before and during the Civil War. Volume 2 studies the rapid growth of intercity news gathering and distribution after the Civil War including the deterioration into collusion among newsbrokers and changes in technology and reporting within the context of attempts to monopolize the flow of information.
