Climate-Environment Resiliency and Adaptation Ruizhong Gao,William Higgisson,Rui Liu,Feleke Zewge ,Xixi Wang,2025-12-01 Climate and land cover changes present unprecedented challenges to environmental stability and human well being The compound effects of rising temperatures and shifting ecosystems increased the frequency and intensity of extreme weather events such as hurricanes droughts floods and heatwaves These events have far reaching impacts on ecosystems economies and communities worldwide underscoring the urgent need for effective resilience and adaptation strategies The Research Topic Climate Environment Resiliency and Adaptation aims to explore the latest research innovations and practical approaches to enhancing resilience and adapting to the adverse effects of climate and land cover changes. It will serve as a platform for multidisciplinary discussions that bridge the gap between science policy and practice, laying a solid scientific foundation for addressing these critical challenges. The topic seeks to highlight advances in resilience principles and strategies for mitigating losses from infrastructure failure due to extreme events. These contributions are expected to address the impacts of climate and land cover changes on ecohydrology, resilience-based stormwater infrastructure planning and design, ecosystem-based adaptation, climate adaptation policies and governance, community resilience, technological innovations, water resources dynamics, agricultural water use and health-related issues arising from these changes. They will help envision a new discipline, prompt relevant research and education support, low-risk decision making and improve policy enactment. We warmly invite submissions from academic researchers, industry professionals, policymakers or practitioners that explore the following or closely related themes: Climate non-stationarity and uncertainty; Addressing future predictions; spatial downscaling; temporal disaggregation and uncertainty reduction; Land cover change and evolution; Analyzing climatic factors, human activities and their effects on hydrologic processes, topsoil erosions and losses as well as vegetation composition and structure; Resilient infrastructure; Developing innovative concepts and approaches to integrate climate and land cover changes into engineering practice aiming to minimize failure risk while maximizing recoverability after extreme events. This includes structural and non-structural approaches such as water resources engineering, structures, nature-based solutions, policy frameworks and community-led initiatives; Modeling and data analysis; Developing and applying mathematical models for resilience prediction with a focus on AI-based modeling and machine learning; big data analyses; Case studies; Showcasing successful practices, lessons learned and technological advancements that enhance community adaptivity to climate and land cover changes. The Research Topic invites original research articles, reviews and case studies on assessing and adapting to climate and land cover changes with a particular emphasis on resilience.

Engineering Future Crops Through Genome Editing Aytug Tuncel, Hyun Uk Kim, Min Chul

Kim, 2025-11-24. Crop breeding, a practice dating back to the origins of agriculture, involves modifying plants to suit human needs. Traditional breeding has limitations including time-consuming processes and labor-intensive efforts. Transgenic methods suffer from a negative public opinion and face substantial regulatory hurdles. In contrast, genome editing is a more effective and versatile approach for trait enhancement which receives broader acceptance among the public. Particularly, the recently developed CRISPR-Cas based tools allow various programmable modifications in plant genomes. These include creating gene knock-outs by inducing double-stranded breaks, introducing beneficial mutations through more precise base and prime editing or altering gene activity through transcriptional activation, repression and epigenome editing. In light of the recent loosening of regulatory policies by governmental bodies, particularly in the US and EU, genome editing has the potential to revolutionize agriculture by enhancing crop yields and nutritional quality. The projected rise in global population requires concurrent increases in agricultural output to ensure worldwide food security Likewise the rise of diet related non communicable diseases necessitates the consumption of more nutritious crops to help mitigate the prevalence of hidden hunger obesity and autoimmune disorders The sustainable approach is to improve the yield and nutritional value of the most widely consumed crops e g rice maize wheat potato soybean and not expand the amount of land allocated to agriculture as this puts stress on the environment Crop yield can be improved by targeting traits related to photosynthesis nutrient uptake and utilization plant architecture storage organ number size weight biotic and abiotic stress tolerance and postharvest storage Similarly the nutritional quality of crops can be enhanced through macronutrient e g carbohydrate protein oil or micronutrient e g vitamins antioxidants minerals engineering as well as by reducing antinutrient content Despite the recent advancements there is a growing need for further research in crop trait modification Genome editing can help engineer these traits faster and easier than ever heralding a new era of precision agriculture We invite contributions to our Research Topic which will explore innovative advancements in genome editing techniques applied to crop plants Specifically we encourage manuscripts addressing the following themes Yield enhancement through genome editing Strategies to boost plant productivity and efficiency Developing stress resistant crops with enhanced tolerance to biotic and abiotic challenges Biofortification and the reduction of antinutrients using precise genome editing Innovations in genome editing for the production of beneficial secondary metabolites Novel genome editing tools and their application in transgene free crop breeding Submissions related to the development of novel genome editing tools that demonstrate the potential of trait improvement as well as proof of concept studies that demonstrate transgene free gene editing are also encouraged We welcome Original Research Review and Perspective articles that contribute to the field of sustainable crop improvement using genome editing techniques
