#Entryleveltweet Book01 Heather R. Huhman, 2010. The statistics are frightening. The National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) 2009 Student Survey shows that just 19.7 percent of 2009 graduates who applied for a job actually have one. And according to NACE's Job Outlook 2010 Fall Preview, employers expect to hire 7 percent fewer graduates from the college Class of 2010 than they hired from the Class of 2009. What's worse, this issue cannot completely be blamed on a poor economy. Entry-level hiring should have increased because many employers have laid off more expensive, experienced talent. So what's preventing new talent from entering the career marketplace? Millennials, those individuals born between 1977 and 1997 and also known as Generation Y, often expect college to teach them how to find jobs and are disappointed upon finding out this is not the case. And the career advice they do receive comes from authority figures like campus career center staff whom they do not believe or trust. These graduates need practical and insightful guidance from someone who knows the challenges they face and how to overcome them.

Fast Start Guide to Work from Home Jobs Diana Loera, 2015-01-23. Unfortunately, many qualified people struggle daily to find jobs in our down economy. People are sending in over a 100 resumes and not even hearing back on 1. Then we have the other group: these are people who have tapped into the work-from-home job opportunities. I'm NOT referring to multi-level marketing or piecework/freelance such as eLance, but real jobs, full-time and part-time jobs, jobs with insurance and 401k options, jobs that pay well and are even better as you have no commuting expenses, no gas expenses, and no work clothing expenses. As someone who has been in the direct response infomercial industry for many years, I've accumulated a wealth of contacts, and interestingly enough, many of them offer work-from-home job opportunities. If you are looking for a job, either long-term or to hold you over until you find the job you want, if you live in a remote area, if you are disabled, whatever your reason, if you want a legit job to do from home, I hope you'll take a look at the
