The second major finding of the study was that the majority of respondents (70%) were male, while 30% were female. This suggests that the study may have been more relevant to men than to women, or that men were more likely to respond to the survey. The study also found that the majority of respondents (60%) were aged 18-34, while 40% were aged 35 and older. This suggests that the study may have been more relevant to younger adults than to older adults.

De Oratore Iiii

Marcus Tullius Cicero

De Oratore Iiii:

De Oratore Marcus Tullius Cicero, 2011 Cicero's De Oratore is one of the masterpieces of Latin prose. A literary dialogue in the Greek tradition it was written in 55 B.C. in the midst of political turmoil at Rome but reports a discussion concerning the ideal orator that supposedly took place in 91 B.C. just before an earlier crisis. Cicero features eminent orators and statesmen of the past as participants in this discussion presenting competing views on many topics. This edition of Book III is the first since 1893 to provide a Latin text and full introduction and commentary in English. It is intended to help advanced students and others interested in Roman literature to comprehend the grammar and appreciate the stylistic nuances of Cicero's Latin to trace the historical literary and theoretical background of the topics addressed and to interpret Book III in relation to the rest of De Oratore and to Cicero's other works. Cicero. de Oratore Marcus Tullius Cicero, 2017-08-10 Though his name does not appear on the titlepage any merit discoverable in the translation of De Oratore Book I is largely due to my friend Mr Charles Stuttaford sometime of Amersham Hall School. Originally entrusted with the execution of both these volumes he had done much preliminary work on the text and translation of Book I when reasons of health compelled him to relinquish his task. I most gratefully acknowledge my heavy indebtedness to his labours
