Fabulating Beauty, 2005-01-01 Peter Carey is one of Australia's finest creative writers much admired by both literary critics and a worldwide reading public. While academia has been quick to see his fictions as exemplars of postcolonial and postmodern writing strategies, his general readership has been captivated by his deadpan sense of humour, his quirky characters, the outlandish settings and the grotesqueries of his intricate plots. After three decades of prolific writing and multiple award-winning, Carey stands out in the world of Australian letters as designated heir to Patrick White. Fabulating Beauty pays tribute to Carey's literary achievement. It brings together the voices of many of the most renowned Carey critics in twenty essays, sixteen commissioned especially for this volume, an interview with the author as well as the most extensive bibliography of Carey criticism to date. The studies represent a wide range of current perspectives on the writer's fictions. Contributors focus on issues as diverse as the writer's biography, his use of architectural metaphors, his interrogation of narrative structures such as myths and cultural master plots, intertextual strategies, concepts of sacredness and references to the Christian tradition and his strategies of rewriting history. Amidst predictions of the imminent death of postist theory, the essays all attest to the ongoing relevance of the critical parameters framed by postmodernism and postcolonialism.

One moment you're watching the movie, the next you are the monster. With zombies shambling through concession stands and slashers lurking in the parking lot, a group of teenage horror fans must use their knowledge of the genre to survive. As reality bends and films bleed into each other, they discover the source of the nightmare: a cursed projector with ties to Hollywood's darkest secrets. To save the town and their lives, they'll have to face iconic villains, battle creatures from every genre and uncover the twisted legacy behind the Rustwood Drive In. If they fail, the horror won't stop at the big screen; it will devour everything.
