Virtual Technical Services Mary Beth Weber, Melissa De Fino, 2022-04-25 Prior to the COVID pandemic there was little published information to guide technical services operations on how to deal with crises and emergencies Viewed as a backroom operation by administration little thought historically has been given to how these employees might protect equipment and resources and continue to provide services that seamlessly support the rest of the library Virtual Technical Services A Handbook is the first to address emergency and crisis planning specifically for technical services The authors address how to create an emergency plan and how to prepare for an uncertain future that will undoubtedly include other threats to our health and safety We discuss how the pivot to remote work can revolutionize technical services librarianship and allow us to better serve the needs of a 21st Century library As the WFH period extended longer than anticipated libraries and other organizations realized both the challenges and benefits of working remotely WFH is about more than just doing one s job and we focus on employees as individuals with needs that include work life balance self care and the flexibility to meet life circumstances including childcare eldercare and appointments A unique feature of our book is the focus on employee well being including burnout and self care Prior to COVID 19 employee well being was typically not emphasized as part of personnel management The risks to our health and safety and being removed from the physical workplace provided the opportunity to re examine priorities and reframe them to forge a stronger and more collaborative relationship between employers and employees Technical services personnel in particular are subject to burnout as their operations are frequently understaffed and they face competing demands of serving both libraries physical needs and supporting electronic and digital resources Management in a remote work environment has challenges that are not present in an on site operation Communication setting expectations and documentation and training take on added significance when WFH as does accountability Our book addresses these aspects of management through a WFH lens The book also covers the return to work after a shift to remote whether it is completely on site hybrid or some combination Normalization determining staffing levels employee accommodations and an adjustment period are discussed Since most technical services personnel have not previously had to pivot to remote on short notice and for an extended period the book addresses these issues for libraries as they make decisions about repopulating their workplaces

COVID-19 Stories from the Swedish Welfare State Barbara Czarniawska, Josef Pallas, Elena Raviola, 2025-01-14 This book offers a unique perspective on Sweden's COVID 19 response in its publicly funded welfare sector which was initially highly criticised but later recognised as exemplary on the global stage in the aftermath of the pandemic Using diaries stories and interviews from 73 workers across 30 professions it reveals the everyday experiences of those maintaining welfare services both on the front lines and behind the scenes Covering 2020 to 2022 it spans major cities and smaller municipalities across Gothenburg Uppsala and Stockholm and introduces pandemiccracy a concept exploring pandemic era governance and organisation of the public sector This insightful analysis sparks a wider discussion on adapting to unforeseen challenges in public welfare

Wired TV Denise Mann, 2014-02-11 This collection looks at the post network television industry's heady experiments with new forms of interactive storytelling or wired TV that took place from 2005 to 2010 as the networks responded to the introduction of broadband into the majority of homes and the proliferation of popular participatory Web 2.0 companies like Facebook YouTube and Twitter Contributors address a wide range of issues from the networks sporadic efforts to engage fans using transmedia storytelling to the production inefficiencies that continue to dog network television to the impact of multimedia convergence and multinational corporate conglomeration on entrepreneurial creativity With essays from such top scholars as Henry Jenkins John T Caldwell and Jonathan Gray and from new and exciting voices emerging in this field Wired TV elucidates the myriad new digital threats and the equal number of digital opportunities that have become part and parcel of today's post network era Readers will quickly recognize the familiar television franchises on which the contributors focus including Lost The Office Entourage Battlestar Gallactica The L Word and Heroes in order to reveal their impact on an industry in transition While it is not easy for vast bureaucracies to change course executives from key network divisions engaged in an unprecedented period of innovation and collaboration with four important groups members of the Hollywood creative community who wanted to expand television's storytelling worlds and marketing capabilities by incorporating social media members of the Silicon Valley tech community who were keen to rethink television distribution for the digital era members of the Madison Avenue advertising community who were eager to rethink ad supported content and fans who were enthusiastic and willing to use social media story extensions to proselytize on behalf of a favorite network series In the aftermath of the lengthy Writers Guild of America strike of 2007-2008 the networks clamped down on such collaborations and began to reclaim control over their operations locking themselves back into an aging system of interconnected bureaucracies entrenched hierarchies and traditional partners from the past What's next for the future of the television industry Stay tuned or at least online Contributors Vincent Brook Will Brooker John T Caldwell M J Clarke Jonathan
