Global Practices of Language Teaching: Proceedings of the 2008 International Online Language Conference (IOLC 2008)
Azadeh Shafaei, 2008-12-30 The first International Online Language Conference was successfully held in September 2008. This event invited professors, Masters and Ph D students and academicians from around the world to submit papers in areas related to the conference theme. The event was organized by International Online Knowledge Service Provider IOKSP. The main conference objectives were as follows: to provide a platform for language educators, academicians and researchers from diverse cultural backgrounds to exchange ideas and the best practices for effective language teaching and learning; to promote better understanding of cultural diversity in language learning; to encourage language educators to be involved in the research process in order to achieve comprehensive excellence; and to produce a collection of scholarly papers. Ideas and Forms in English and American Literature: Poetry Homer, Andrew Watt, James Buell Munn, 1925 Substitute Teacher Survival Activities Vol 1 Thomas J. Rundquist, 2000-08 Academic Medicine - New Trends and Developments for the 2030s Stanislaw P. Stawicki, 2025-10-01 Dating back to ancient civilizations around the world, medical education has become the foundation for the sustainable transmission of knowledge and skills required to heal the sick, treat the injured and promote overall well-being. During the past two centuries, medical education has seen significant growth. This rapid growth corresponded to our evolving understanding of and the ability to treat various acute and chronic medical and surgical conditions. Beginning in the second half of the 20th century, the pace of medical progress and unprecedented aggregation of new knowledge resulted in the amalgamation of various academic medical pursuits into what we know today as academic medicine: a unique blend of education, leadership, research and clinical excellence. Academic medicine is a noble pursuit and one of the essential constructs that have enabled innovation and new discoveries, making modern medical care more effective than ever before. Academic medicine also serves not only to generate new knowledge but also to sustain our civilizational progress by preserving existing knowledge, skills and traditions accumulated over the millennia of the collective global history of medicine. The next decade promises to be a time of great transition and opportunity for academic medicine. There are many areas of great opportunity, but there are also areas of deep concern. It is the responsibility of medical academicians across all medical and surgical specialties to ensure that the next generations of physicians are provided with a solid foundation for professional growth and development, spanning from state-of-the-art medical education to cutting-edge leadership development opportunities. No matter the challenge, an unwavering commitment to the principles of ethical and human-centric frameworks must be maintained regardless of any other factors and considerations. Teaching Models in Education of the Gifted C. June Maker, Aleene B. Nielson, 1995 Supervision for Today's Schools George E. Pawlas, Peter F. views on supervision but with those of other specialists in the field placing heavy emphasis on practice and the supervisor's responsibilities as an instructional leader. Continues to stress that the relationship between the supervisor and teacher is built on trust and that the overall goal is to improve student achievement through better instruction. Teachers' Monographs, 1903
