Digital Business Transformation in Africa, Volume II Thomas Anning-Dorson, 2025-09-30 As Africa s digital economy expands rapidly it presents a wealth of opportunities for both micro and macroeconomic development This book the second of two volumes offers a comprehensive examination of how digital technologies are altering the way companies interact with customers and the continent's broader digital ecosystem. Drawing on a rich mix of empirical studies and conceptual frameworks, this volume examines key themes at the forefront of Africa's digital revolution. It explores the impact of super apps and IoT on consumer interactions, the role of mobile technologies in shaping African digital ecosystems, and the multifaceted influence of digital technologies on socio-economic development. The book delves into cutting-edge customer engagement strategies, including the use of short-form video content, chatbots, and emojis in digital customer service, providing empirical insights into their effectiveness in the African context. Furthermore, this volume offers nuanced analyses of social media's role in brand engagement and e-commerce, exploring generational dynamics and cross-country trends. It also examines the intersection of digital activism and brand management, offering valuable insights for companies navigating the complex socio-political landscape of African markets. It will be of great interest to scholars and students of innovation strategy and business in Africa.

An Ed-Tech Tragedy? Mark West, 2025-10-10. The COVID-19 pandemic pushed education from schools to educational technologies at a pace and scale with no historical precedent. For hundreds of millions of students, formal learning became fully dependent on technology, whether internet-connected digital devices, televisions, or radios. An Ed-Tech Tragedy examines the numerous adverse and unintended consequences of the shift to ed-tech. It documents how technology-first solutions left a global majority of learners behind and details the many ways education was diminished, even when technology was available and worked as intended. Using tragedy as a metaphor and borrowing the organization of a three-act theatrical play, the book shows how technology-first modes of learning introduced novel health and safety risks, handed significant control of public education to for-profit companies, expanded invasive digital surveillance, and carried detrimental environmental repercussions, in addition to adversely impacting educational access, equity, quality, and outcomes in most contexts. Dedicated sections consider alternative and less technology-reliant educational responses to COVID-19 disruptions that had the potential to be more inclusive and equitable. The analysis further explains how pandemic models of learning are rippling beyond school closures and influencing the future of education. Holistically, the work invites readers to reconsider a turbulent chapter in education history and reexamine the purposes and roles of technology in education.

You Lied First Annabel Kantaria, 2025-07-17. The truth is everyone lies. All that matters is who lies the best.

COVID-19 and Psychological Distress in Africa Yamikani Ndasauka, 2024-01-09. This timely book draws on unique African experiences to explore the intersection between mental health and African communitarianism in the context of COVID-19, giving voice to the perspectives of vulnerable populations facing pre-existing challenges such as depression, anxiety, and stress. Advancing knowledge and contributing to the global debate about the effects of the pandemic on the psychological well-being of African people, chapters critique the role of media, information, misinformation, and disinformation during this period on individual and community-based mental health. Using a holistic approach, the book highlights the need to prioritise the localising of mental health systems and clinical services to provide a better standard of care and comprehensive context specific mental health interventions that consider the heterogeneity within and between African regions The book demonstrates through nuanced evidence and analysis that communitarian perspectives allow African societies to balance collective solidarity with individual well being to benefit overall mental health Ultimately drawing on communal values and localised knowledge to cultivate resilience to fight the psychosocial impacts of COVID 19 in Africa the book will be of interest to scholars postgraduate students and researchers exploring psychology philosophy of mental health and public health policy more broadly as well as and cultural studies and the sociology of pandemics The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license
