Clear A Transparent Novel:

Clear Nicola Barker, 2004 Set during the 44 days in Fall 2003 that the American illusionist David Blaine spent without food suspended over the Thames in a clear plastic box The narrator is a young man called Adair MacKenny who works in the London Assembly building and consequently finds his path to and from work impeded by Blaine lovers and haters Even those who never make the journey down to Tower Bridge appear to be touched in some way by the many readings of what starvation artist Blaine is up to Theory of the Gimmick Sianne Ngai, 2020-06-16 Acclaimed critic Sianne Ngai theorizes the gimmick as an aesthetic category reflecting the fundamental laws of capitalism Gimmicks make promises of saving labor and increasing value that we distrust but also find attractive Exploring the use of this form Ngai shows how its aesthetic dissatisfactions reflect deeper anxieties about capitalism Encyclopedia of Contemporary Writers and Their Work Geoff Hamilton, Brian Jones, 2015-04-22 Presents an alphabetical reference guide detailing the lives and works of authors associated with the English language fiction of the twentieth and twenty first centuries Women's Fiction and Post-9/11 Contexts Peter Childs, Claire Colebrook, Sebastian Groes, 2014-10-21 9 11 is not simple a date on the calendar but marks a distinct historical threshold ushering in the war on terror various states of emergency a supposed clash of civilizations and the putative legitimization of counter democratic procedures ranging from extraordinary renditions to enhanced interrogation Perhaps no date since Virginia Woolf declared that on or about December 1910 human character changed has marked such a singular point in the perception of time identity and nature Women's writing has always been something of a counter canon offering modes of voice and point of view beyond that of the man of reason This collection of essays explores the two problems of what it means to write as a woman and what it means to write in the twenty first century The Spectator, 1913 A weekly review of politics literature theology and art The American Year Book, 1913 The Publishers Weekly, 2005 Book Reviews, 1899 Reference-book of Practical Therapeutics Frank Pierce Foster, 1897 Reference-book of practical therapeutics v. 1, 1896 Frank Pierce Foster, 1896 Descriptions of physiognomies in English fiction from realism to modernism Mirjam Marits, 2003-11-28 Diploma Thesis from the year 2003 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Literature Works grade very good University of Graz Institute for Anglistics language English abstract 1 Introduction Descriptions of physiognomies in English literature and their significance It is a fascinating phenomenon that whenever we meet another person for the first time we unconsciously and immediately judge him or her by merely looking at the person's face Although we may call ourselves the most tolerant people free of prejudices we cannot help thinking a person likeable or not right away by the first visual impression we get without ever having talked to him or her Even though we know that a correspondence of physiognomic and inner traits has never been convincingly or scientifically proved it is unquestionable that most of us are impressed and influenced by visual data we receive from our fellow human beings' faces In the course of history and thus of literature people have repeatedly tried to come to terms with this phenomenon and to find explanations as well as definitions that may help to face and deal with physiognomy in everyday life Apparently it has always been and still is people's wish to read in other faces so as to facilitate contact and to know how to judge characters That this desire is not new can be seen by the fact that even Pseudo Aristotle set up very questionable highly racist and sexist rules according to which one could categorise faces and thus know what kind of character is hidden behind the surface Today nobody relies on his writings anymore which categorised people among other factors by establishing an analogy between animals and human beings According to the author those who had certain traits that were seen as resembling certain animals were considered to have the respective animal's inner traits as well as in the following examples Die Menschen mit dicken Lippen wobei die obere weiter vorsteht als die untere sind dumm siehe die Esel und Affen Die eine kleine Stirn haben sind ungebildet siehe die Schweine 1 In English literature the question of whether there is an indexical or arbitrary connection between inner and outer traits has been approached in many different ways which cannot be analysed in detail here In a large number of older texts descriptive passages containing physiognomic hints were not included which points to a certain disinterest in this field of explanations as well as in visual details in general 1 Pseudo Aristoteles 300v Chr 1999 Physiognomica bers u kommentiert von Sabine Vogt Berlin Akademie Verlag 26f American Book Publishing Record ,2005 The German Novel Roy Pascal,1965 Literary World; Choice Readings from the Best New Books, with Critical Reviews ,1888 Interior ,1920 Continent ,1920 The Athenaeum ,1913 The Interior ,1920 Issues for Jan 12 1888 Jan 1889 include monthly Magazine supplement The Dial ,1909 Margaret Atwood's novels Hilde Staels,1995
