Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, 1992 ASSIST, 2005 Just as the American Stop Smoking Intervention Study for Cancer Prevention ASSIST was a major shift in the National Cancer Institute's NCI's tobacco prevention and control research and dissemination efforts this monograph is a significant departure from NCI's previous tobacco control monographs For many the ASSIST project represented a logical progression of NCI's phased research approach to reducing tobacco use For others it represented a controversial and overly ambitious leap in a new direction Similarly this monograph departs from the traditional quantitative evidence review format to emphasize instead the practical hands on experience of program implementation Traditional research investigators who defend the sanctity of the randomized clinical trial many of whom were uncomfortable with ASSIST at its outset will also be uncomfortable with the personal and anecdotal flavor of this monograph Public health practitioners on the other hand as well as those investigators who have immersed themselves in the untidy world of implementation research will appreciate the detailed historical accounts of the complexities politics and outright opposition encountered by the ASSIST team The collective experiences described in this monograph provide a rich understanding of the gritty struggle against the powerful forces of the tobacco industry and its allies For students in public health training programs this work also provides a unique view of the world outside of academia where commercial political and public health interests collide in a struggle to define the policies norms and practices that will affect the health of generations page viii EPA National Publications Catalog United States.
