The Country Gentleman, 1947 Poultry Tribune, 1945 Sounds English Nabeel Zuberi, 2001

Zuberi looks at how the sounds, images, and lyrics of English popular music generate and critique ideas of national belonging, recasting the social and even the physical landscapes of cities like Manchester and London. The Smiths and Morrissey play on romanticized notions of the white English working class while the Pet Shop Boys map a queer urban Britain in the AIDS era. The techno culture of raves and dance clubs incorporates both an anti-institutional do-it-yourself politics and emergent leisure practices while the potent mix of technology and creativity in British black music includes local conditions as well as a sense of global diaspora. British Asian musicians drawing on Afrodiasporic and South Asian traditions seek a sense of place in Britain as commercial interests try to pin down an image of them to market. Sounds English shows how popular music complicates cherished notions of Englishness as it activates cultural outsiders and taps into a sense of not belonging.
