Photography, Ecology and Historical Change in the Anthropocene Bergit Arends, 2024-07-09 Moving beyond existing scholarship this book connects photography archives ecology and historical change and critically applies the Anthropocene as framework to the in depth study of artists projects It discards single modes of seeing environmental transformations in favour of a multiple and de centred environmental imagination Bergit Arends uses multidisciplinary perspectives to view localized environmental social and political issues through research based artistic practices. The book not only makes available original research into newly and recently discovered archives of ecological and historical change but also shows how this research is manifest in exhibition formats This book presents international transhistorical projects by contemporary visual artists who use archives together with photography as documentary and performative media for the comparative study of environments and places A wide array of artists from diverse backgrounds working primarily in Europe and North America from the 1970s to the present day are discussed and set in relation to Anthropocene narratives Case studies include environmental archive based work by Nguyen the Thuc Christiane Eisler Chrystel Lebas Mark Dion Joy Gregory and Philip Miller The book will be of interest to scholars working in photography archive studies art history visual culture environmental humanities and ecocriticism Science, Empire and the European Exploration of the Pacific Tony Ballantyne, 2018-10-24 This collection of essays assesses the interrelationship between exploration empire building and science in the opening up of the Pacific Ocean by Europeans between the early 16th and mid 19th century It explores both the role of various sciences in enabling European imperial projects in the region and how the exploration of the Pacific in turn shaped emergent scientific disciplines and their claims to authority within Europe Drawing on a range of disciplines from the history of science to geography imperial history to literary criticism this volume examines the place of science in cross cultural encounters the history of cartography in Oceania shifting understandings of race and cultural difference in the Pacific and the place of ships books and instruments in the culture of science It reveals the exchanges and networks that connected British French Spanish and Russian scientific traditions even in the midst of imperial competition and the ways in which findings in diverse fields from cartography to zoology botany to anthropology were disseminated and crafted into an increasingly coherent image of the Pacific its resources peoples and histories This is a significant body of scholarship that offers many important insights for anthropologists and geographers as well as for historians of science and European imperialism The New Zealand Journal of History, 2002 The Death of Captain Cook Glyndwr Williams, 2008 In a style that is more detective story than conventional biography Williams explores the multiple narratives of Cook s death In short Williams examines the story of Cook s progress from obscurity to fame and eventually to infamy a story that until now has never been fully told Artmaking in the Age of Global Capitalism Bryant Jan Bryant, 2019-09-11 Jan Bryant looks at the strategies visual artists and filmmakers are using to criticise the social and economic conditions shaping our historical moment She then assesses how the world is being positively re imagined through their work today Located at the intersection of practice and theory Bryant argues that an effective contemporary political aesthetics encompasses more than just analysis of a work s conceptual or aesthetic reality It should also consider the impact the artwork has at the point of reception the methods adopted by the artists and the relationships they engender with communities Modernisms Ruth B.
