Gopal, 1984 About the book The book provides an integrated treatment of continuous time and discrete time systems for two courses at postgraduate level or one course at undergraduate and one course at postgraduate level It covers mainly two areas of modern control theory namely system theory and multivariable and optimal control The coverage of the former is quite exhaustive while that of latter is adequate with significant provision of the necessary topics that enables a research student to comprehend various technical papers The stress is on interdisciplinary nature of the subject Practical control problems from various engineering disciplines have been drawn to illustrate the potential concepts Most of the theoretical results have been presented in a manner suitable for digital computer programming along with the necessary algorithms for numerical computations

Dynamics of Continuous, Discrete & Impulsive Systems, 2004 Model Error Concepts & Compensation International Federation of Automatic Control, 1986-06-30 Presents a state of the art review of model error concepts their characterization and compensation in estimation and control problems with particular emphasis on error propagation model order selection performance guarantees sensitivity and adaptive methods Main topics covered include linear and nonlinear systems identification robotics computer aided design signal processing computers and communication in control automation and real time control of processes

Applied Control Theory James R. Leigh, 1982 Concerned with the application of control theory to real problems in their industrial context Presupposes some knowledge of automatic control theory

Choice, 2002 Subject Guide to Books in Print, 2001 Computers in Fermentation Technology M. E. Bushell, 1988 This volume in the Progress in Industrial Microbiology series describes many aspects of the use of computers in fermentation technology The introduction of advanced computer hardware for fermentation control pre dated to some extent the availability of suitable control software As recently as five years ago it was not uncommon for major fermentation plants to have installed state of the art computing facilities which were subsequently used as little more than intelligent recording systems Fermentation technology has now caught up with the other manufacturing sciences in the implementation of advanced computing methodology but the problems are more demanding due to biological variability a phenomenon which characterises all processes involving cell cultures In this volume two approaches to the problem are described one involving optimisation statistics in fermentation process design and the other concentrating on the use of models for control purposes describing the use of the Kalman Filter for real time process optimisation and control The first chapter introduces the opportunities made possible by the implementation of computer systems
