Conventional Emotions:

Cognitive Neuroscience of Emotion Richard D. Lane, Lynn Nadel, 2000 This book a member of the Series in Affective Science is a unique interdisciplinary sequence of articles on the cognitive neuroscience of emotion by some of the most well known researchers in the area It explores what is known about cognitive processes in emotion at the same time it reviews the processes and anatomical structures involved in emotion determining whether there is something about emotion and its neural substrates that requires they be studied as a separate domain Divided into four major focal points and presenting research that has been performed in the last decade this book covers the process of emotion generation the functions of amygdala the conscious experience of emotion and emotion regulation and dysregulation Collectively the chapters constitute a broad but selective survey of current knowledge about emotion and the brain and they all address the close association between cognitive and emotional processes By bringing together diverse strands of investigation with the aim of documenting current understanding of how emotion is instantiated in the brain this book will be of use to scientists researchers and advanced students of psychology and neuroscience Cognitive Neuroscience of Emotion Richard D. Lane M.D., Ph.D., Lynn Nadel Ph.D., 2002-04-04 By bringing together some of the most well known researchers in the area who present diverse strands of investigation with the aim of documenting current understanding of cognitive processes in emotion this book will be of use to scientists researchers and advanced students of psychology and neuroscience

Cultural Histories of Law, Media and Emotion Katie Barclay, Amy Milka, 2022-07-21 Cultural Histories of Law Media and Emotion Public Justice explores how the legal history of long eighteenth century Britain has been transformed by the cultural turn and especially the associated history of emotion Seeking to reflect on the state of the field 13 essays by leading and emerging scholars bring cutting edge research to bear on the intersections between law print culture and emotion in Britain across the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Divided into three sections this collection explores the public as a site of legal sensibility it demonstrates how the rhetoric of emotion constructed the law in legal practice and in society and culture and it highlights how approaches from cultural and emotions history have recentred the individual the biography and the group to explain long running legal historical problems Across this volume authors evidence how engagements between cultural and legal history have revitalised our understanding of law s role in eighteenth century culture and society not least deepening our understanding of justice as produced with and through the public This volume is the ideal resource for upper level undergraduates postgraduates and scholars interested in the history of emotions as well as the legal history of Britain from the late seventeenth to the nineteenth century The Epistemology of Protest José Medina, 2023 The Epistemology of Protest offers a polyphonic theory of protest as a mechanism for political communication group constitution and epistemic empowerment The book analyzes the communicative power of protest to break social silences and disrupt insensitivity and complicity with injustice Philosopher Jos Medina also elucidates the power of protest movements to transform social sensibilities and change the political imagination Medina's theory of protest examines the obligations that citizens and institutions have to give proper uptake to protests and to communicatively engage with protesting publics in all their diversity without excluding or marginalizing radical voices and perspectives Throughout the book Medina gives communicative and epistemic arguments for the value of imagining with protest movements and for taking seriously the radical political imagination exercised in social movements of liberation Medina's theory sheds light on the different ways in which protest can be silenced and the different communicative and epistemic injustices that protest movements can face arguing for forms of epistemic activism that resist silencing and communicative epistemic injustices while empowering protesting voices While arguing for democratic obligations to give proper uptake to protest the book underscores how demanding listening to protesting voices can be under conditions of oppression and epistemic injustice A central claim of the book is that responsible citizens have an obligation to echo or express communicative solidarity with the protests of oppressed groups that have been silenced and epistemically marginalized Studying social uprisings the book further argues that citizens have a duty to join protesting publics when grave injustices are in the public eye Coping and Complaining

Simon R. Wilkinson, 2004-03-01 Good clinical practice is impossible without an understanding of the ways in which patients present their complaints Patients have their own styles of coping and of expressing their concerns and without a clear understanding of these the clinician may find successful and swift diagnosis and treatment much harder to achieve Coping and Complaining provides essential guidance for clinicians on how to identify various coping styles and how to improve the quality of discourse with people of different backgrounds and ages Drawing on a diverse range of evidence from such areas as developmental psychology and theories on learning and memory Coping and Complaining provides essential information on identification of patients coping styles focusing on such areas as The latest developments in attachment theory The neurobiology of emotional development and the biology of language development Primary processes in early development Communication role play the moral order of the consultation and emotional first aid Consequences for preventive medicine Coping and Complaining presents stimulating new approaches to consultations with patients and creative new ways of looking at health promotion
