Consuming People From Political Economy To Theatres Of Consumption:

Consuming People Nikhilesh Dholakia, A. Fuat Firat, 2003-12-16 Consumption is widely regarded as one of the most important phenomena in contemporary society but till now there has been very little analysis of how consumption patterns evolve transform and proliferate This revealing book provides an incisive treatment of consumption on a global scale from a cultural philosophical and business perspective Beginning with an analysis of how a dominant form of consumption pattern took hold in modern capitalist market economies this book explores the contemporary changes and paradoxes in our consumption patterns during the transitional period from the modern to the postmodern The text focuses on the forces shaping American consumption patterns from corporations to Hollywood and concludes with an analysis of the emerging trans modern possibilities of the new theatre of consumption where communities with a variety of consumption styles will flourish This is an original and radical analysis in which its first rate authors structure this key topic in a multi disciplinary and forward thinking way As such it will be of great interest to students and researchers of consumer behaviour in business and the social sciences as well as those concerned with contemporary cultural transformations Consuming People A.

Fuat Firat, Nikhilesh Dholakia, 2000 Print begr nsniger Der kan printes kapit Elvis Consumerism in Twentieth-Century Britain Matthew Hilton, 2003-11-13 This book is the first comprehensive history of consumerism as an organised social and political movement Matthew Hilton offers a groundbreaking account of consumer movements ideologies and organisations in twentieth century Britain He argues that in organisations such as the Co operative movement and the Consumers Association individual concern with what and how we spend our wages led to forms of political engagement too often overlooked in existing accounts of twentieth century history He explores how the consumer and consumerism came to be regarded by many as a third force in society with the potential to free politics from the perceived stranglehold of the self interested actions of employers and trade unions Finally he recovers the visions of countless consumer activists who saw in consumption a genuine force for liberation for women the working class and new social movements as well as a set of ideas often deliberately excluded from more established political organisations Marketing Graffiti Michael Saren, 2013-05-13

Rejecting the managerially driven structures normally imposed on the subject Saren explains marketing from the perspective of the pivotal figure in the process the consumer He addresses readers as active consumers and producers of marketing and therefore already well equipped to appreciate the rationale and practice behind the process Critically examining the wide range of products businesses technologies information services ads packaging and branding Saren utilizes everyday images and phenomena to draw out the conceptual foundations of marketing in its social and cultural context that we all experience By taking this alternative approach linking the abstract concepts to the everyday world the reader already knows Marketing Graffiti explains marketing as consumers experience it as active participants in it reflecting the variety in the bricolage subject that is marketing Audience Engagement in the Performing Arts Ben Walmsley, 2019-09-11 This book explores the concept of audience engagement from a number of complementary perspectives including cultural value arts marketing co creation and digital engagement It offers a critical review of the existing literature on audience research and engagement and provides an overview of established and emerging methodologies deployed to undertake research with audiences The book focusses on the performing arts but draws from a rich diversity of academic fields to make the case for a radically interdisciplinary approach to audience research The book s underlying thesis is that at the heart of audience research there is a mutual exchange of value wherein audiences ideally play the role of strategic partners in the mission fulfilment of arts organisations Illustrating how audiences have traditionally been side lined homogenised and vilified it contends that the future paradigm of audience studies should be based on an engagement model wherein audiences take their rightful place as subjects rather than objects of empirical research Managing Consumer Services Enzo Baglieri,Uday
