Consuming Architecture:

Consuming Architecture Daniel Maudlin, Marcel Vellinga, 2014-03-05 Projecting forward in time from the processes of design and construction that are so often the focus of architectural discourse Consuming Architecture examines the variety of ways in which buildings are consumed after they have been produced focusing in particular on processes of occupation appropriation and interpretation Drawing on contributions by architects historians anthropologists literary critics artists film makers photographers and journalists it shows how the consumption of architecture is a dynamic and creative act that involves the creation and negotiation of meanings and values by different stakeholders and that can be expressed in different voices In so doing it challenges ideas of what constitutes architecture architectural discourse and architectural education how we understand and think about it and who can claim ownership of it Consuming Architecture is aimed at students in architectural education and will also be of interest to students and researchers from disciplines that deal with architecture in terms of consumption and material culture

Why Architects Matter Flora Samuel,2018-03-09 Why Architects Matter examines the key role of research led ethical architects in promoting wellbeing sustainability and innovation It argues that the profession needs to be clear about what it knows and the value of what it knows if it is to work successfully with others Without this clarity the marginalization of architects from the production of the built environment will continue preventing clients businesses and society from getting the buildings that they need The book offers a strategy for the development of a twenty first century knowledge led built environment including tools to help evidence develop and communicate that value to those outside the field Knowing how to demonstrate the impact and value of their work will strengthen practitioners ability to pitch for work and access new funding streams This is particularly important at a time of global economic downturn with ever greater competition for contracts and funds driving down fees and making it imperative to prove value at every level Why Architects Matter straddles the spheres of Practice Management and Law History and Theory Design Housing Sustainability Health Marketing and Advice for Clients bringing them into an accessible whole The book will therefore be of interest to professional architects architecture students and anyone with an interest in our built environment and the role of professionals within it

The Architect, the Cook and Good Taste Petra Hagen Hodgson,Rolf Toyka,2007-03-29 Since time immemorial cooking and building have been among humanity s most basic occupations Both of them are rooted in necessity but both of them also possess a cultural as well as a sensory aesthetic dimension And while it is true that cooking is a transitory art form it gives expression to the periods of human cultural history just as architecture does Moreover both arts accord a central role to the materials employed Both involve measuring and proportioning shaping and designing assembling and composing This book pursues the astonishing parallels and deeply rooted connections between the art of building and that of cooking A variety of essays takes up questions of materiality and proportioning Attention will also be given to food cultivation and architecture to the places where meals are prepared as well as a range of different culinary spaces With articles by Annette Gigon Stanislaus von Moos Claudio Silvestrin Ian Ritchie and others
