Contemporary American Family A Dialectical Perspective On Communication And Relationships:

The Contemporary American Family Teresa Chandler Sabourin, 2003-04-07 I find the book extremely attractive The dialectical perspective provides a consistent avenue from which to address the diversity structural cultural developmental and functional in Contemporary American Families Whereas this perspective does not claim to solve the tensions in families it offers marvelous insights into the nature and changing diversities in families I believe this text is particularly well suited for reasonable discussion of serious issues and provides valuable insights into the nature of families and their functioning Vince Bloom California State University Fresno Teresa Chandler Sabourin invites students to appreciate the mystery complexity and diversity of the contemporary American family Resisting simplistic descriptions and normative descriptions Sabourin challenges us to open our minds and hearts to the rich humane variety of family connections as we search for ways to accommodate the competing demands and conflicting pressures experienced in our most cherished relationships Starting from the source of her own experience Sabourin addresses both the darker abusive side of family relationships as well as the lighter spiritual side of intimacy and love The Contemporary American Family successfully addresses the need for an accessible and teachable treatment of the dialectical perspective on close relationships This is a book that will encourage students of family communication to respect diversity question taken for granted assumptions and share the pain and joy and of their own family experiences Art Bochner University of South Florida Increasingly diverse in structure and culture contemporary families defy explanation by many traditional linear methods In order to understand the enormous impact that diversity has on the behaviors and relationships within the family scholars and students need a means to embrace rather than solve relational contradictions The Contemporary American Family A Dialectical Perspective on Communication and Relationships recognizes that families are both close and distant stable and changing amenable and uncontrollable Teresa Chandler Sabourin employs a dialectical approach acknowledging that a family s contradictions and relational tensions may be the determining factor in its interaction Writing in a direct and simple style Sabourin uses this innovative theoretical position to address four types of family diversity structural cultural developmental and functional Sure to stimulate discussion and further research this provocative volume examines The dialectic process in the context of family communication and relationships The redefined more inclusive American family Contemporary family structures Cultural diversity in the family Issues such as alcoholism domestic violence and divorce Spirituality within the family Designed as a supplemental text for upper level undergraduate and graduate courses in Family Communication The Contemporary American Family is also an invaluable resource for students in Family Studies and Women s Studies courses

Communication Research Measures II ,2009 Expanding and building on the measures included in the original 1994 volume Communication Research Measures II A Sourcebook provides new measures in mass interpersonal instructional and group organizational communication areas and highlights work in newer subdisciplines in communication including intercultural family and health It also includes measures from outside the communication discipline that have been employed in communication research The measures profiled here are the best of the best from the early 1990s through today They are models for future scale development as well Mediating Cultures Alberto González,Tina M. Harris,2013 This book explores the communication challenges faced by parents as they raise children who are bi cultural multi cultural or are adopted from a heritage other than the parents Each contributor views the family as a site of intercultural dialogue and mediation and uses compelling studies throughout to examine the parents who creatively balance cultural influences within their families Using television depictions of parents on Modern Family and All American Muslim to the everyday activities of mixed ethnicity and international families Mediating Cultures reports the communication strategies employed by the parents as they strive to create affirming relationships between children and their heritages This collection brings together two largely separate literatures of family communication and intercultural communication studies with accessible yet context driven studies to explain how families integrate multiple cultural heritages and perspectives

Political and Military Sociology Neovi M. Karakatsanis, Jonathan Swarts, 2013-01-23 Several contributions in this volume focus on the modern Middle East with other articles examining justifications for war the return of war veterans white nationalists and the activities of the Moral Majority Maria Markantonatou addresses the blurring of distinctions between civilians and combatants Udi Lebel investigates how the IDF is being changed by the increasing number of religious Zionists recruited Orlee Hauser argues that the experiences of women in the IDF vary depending on their positions and assignments Bruce McDonald compares the performance of the Feder Ram and augmented Solow models in accounting for economic growth in Iran Neema Noori examines the interrelationship of war the state and mobilization in Iran Molly Clever examines the justifications for war employed by both state and non state actors Christina Knopf uses relational dialectics to examine US veteran transitions David Bugg and Dianne Dentice analyze attitudes and perceptions of white nationalists Finally Aaron Davis considers the rise of the Illinois state chapter of the Moral Majority in the 1980s This volume in the Political and Military Sociology series also includes reviews of important new books in civil military relations political science and military sociology

Communication in Our Lives Julia T. Wood, 1997 Through the use of timely theories and research Communication in Our Lives helps you strengthen your skills as a communicator in personal and public settings Author Julia Wood demonstrates that communication is relevant to virtually every aspect of daily life and shows you the importance of increasing your effectiveness in interpersonal social and professional interactions Communication in Our Lives is based on the premise that effective practice begins with understanding theory the knowledge of how and why the communication process works and what is likely to result from different kinds of communication Each chapter highlights the experiences of diverse people and discusses commonalities and differences among us Psychology Applied to Modern Life Wayne Weiten, Margaret Ann Lloyd, 2003 Edition after edition this comprehensive text for the adjustment course has enjoyed best seller status in a crowded field While professors cite the book for its academic credibility and the authors ability to stay current with hot topics students say it s one text they just don t want to stop reading Its relevant examples spark students interest in psychology and its engaging applications that show students how psychology helps them understand themselves and their world Students and instructors alike find the text and associated workbooks to be a highly readable engaging visually appealing package that provide a wealth of personal applications Books In Print 2004-2005 Ed Bowker Staff, Staff Bowker, Ed, 2004 Journal of Intergroup Relations , 2001 Favorite Activities for the Teaching of Psychology Ludy T. Benjamin, 2008 The most popular activities from Activities Handbooks for the Teaching of Psychology are gathered together and updated in this book of teacher s favourites The lesson plans which encourage active learning and involve the whole class are entertaining effective and easy to plan Interpersonal Communication Julia T. Wood, 1999 This best selling text by a leading voice in the field offers a distinct alternative to existing textbooks for the introductory course in interpersonal communication This theoretically unified but pragmatic introduction to the concepts principles and skills of interpersonal communication in a multicultural society This text consistently integrates ethics and issues of social diversity into coverage of both discussions and mastery of skills and it shows how interpersonal communication theory and skills pertain to students daily encounters with others With unparalleled attention to social diversity and an emphasis on theories research and skills that are anchored in the field of communication the new edition integrates Web and CD ROM technology to provide interactive learning experiences for today s digital classroom Everyday Encounters Julia T. Wood, Angela Henry, 2002 Under-Studied Relationships Julia T. Wood, Steve Duck, 1995-04-17 Long distance relationships nonmarital cohabitation and personal relationships over computer networks all are examples of relationships that are growing in number but that to date have not been adequately researched In Under Studied Relationships a talented team of contributors rectifies existing scholarship s tendency to ignore the diverse and emergent forms of relationships that are increasingly evident in modern society Contributors to this impressive volume examine such largely overlooked issues as long lasting marriages cultural minority relationships gay lesbian relationships friendships at work nonmarital cohabitation long distance relationships and personal relationships over computer networks With the dawning of commuter marriages electronically mediated friendships and microwave relationships this volume cultivates an appreciation of the pluralistic characteristics of relationship life and encourages the expansion of research efforts in this field Under Studied Relationships serves as an ideal resource for scholars and students in social psychology family studies gender studies interpersonal communication clinical and counseling psychology and sociology Communication and the Human Condition W. Barnett Pearce, 1989 Starting with the premise that we live in communication rather than standing outside communication and using it for secondary purposes Pearce claims that people who live in various cultures and historical epochs not only communicate differently but experience different ways of being human because they communicate differently This century he notes ushered in the communication revolution the discovery that communication is far more important and central to the human condition than ever before realized Essential to the communication revolution is the recognition that multiple forms of discourse exist in contemporary human society Further these forms of discourse are not benign they comprise alternative ways of being human Thus communication theory must encompass all that it means to live a life the shape of social institutions and cultural traditions the pragmatics of social action and the poetics of social order Sociological Abstracts Leo P. Chall, 2003 CSA Sociological Abstracts abstracts and indexes the international literature in sociology and related disciplines in the social and behavioral sciences The database provides abstracts of journal articles and citations to book reviews drawn from over 1 800 serials publications and also provides abstracts of books book chapters dissertations and conference papers Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts , 2005 Multicultural Counseling and Psychotherapy Leroy G. Baruth, M. Lee Manning, 2003 Written to explore the lives and potential counseling problems of African American Hispanic American Asian American European American and Native American populations this book considers the powerful influences of a client's developmental stage and cultural background It maintains that integrating multicultural and lifespan considerations are crucial to counseling effectiveness The authors advocate an understanding of individual differences cultural ethnic racial gender sexual orientation socioeconomic and individual in order for counselors to use existing strategies to their best advantage Includes coverage on intervening with clients from counseling specific groups during various lifespan stages and professional issues future directions of the multicultural counseling field It provides readers with an awareness of gender issues how counseling issues differ for various age groups as well as providing current information related to counseling people with disabilities For professionals in the field of counseling
