Managing Natural Resources for Development in Africa Washington Odongo Ochola, P. C. Sanginga, Isaac Bekalo, 2010 The complex and dynamic interlinks between natural resource management NRM and development have long been recognized by national and international research and development organizations and have generated voluminous literature However much of what is available in the form of university course books practical learning manuals and reference materials in NRM is based on experiences from outside Africa Managing Natural Resources for Development in Africa A Resource Book provides an understanding of the various levels at which NRM issues occur and are being addressed scientifically economically socially and politically The book's nine chapters present state of the art perspectives within a holistic African context The book systematically navigates the tricky landscape of integrated NRM with special reference to Eastern and Southern Africa against the backdrop of prevailing local national regional and global social economic and environmental challenges The authors' wide experience the rich references made to emerging challenges and opportunities and the presentation of different tools principles approaches case studies and processes make the book a rich and valuable one stop resource for postgraduate students researchers policymakers and NRM practitioners The book is designed to help the reader grasp in depth NRM perspectives and presents innovative guidance for research design and problem solving including review questions learning activities and recommended further reading The book was developed through a writeshop process by a multi disciplinary team of lecturers from the University of Nairobi Egerton University Kenyatta University the University of Zimbabwe the University of Malawi Makerere University and the University of Dar es

Salam In addition selected NRM experts from regional and international research organizations including the World Agroforestry Center ICRAF the Africa Forest Forum RUFORUM IIRR and the International Development Research Centre IDRC participated in the writeshop and contributed material to the book Natural Resources Conservation and Advances for Sustainability Manoj Kumar Jhariya, Ram Swaroop Meena, Arnab Banerjee, Surya Nandan Meena, 2021-09-24 Natural Resources Conservation and Advances for Sustainability addresses the latest challenges associated with the management and conservation of natural resources It presents interdisciplinary approaches to promote advances in solving these challenges By examining what has already been done and analyzing it in the context of what still needs to be done particularly in the context of latest technologies and sustainability the book helps to identify ideal methods for natural resource management and conservation Each chapter begins with a graphical abstract and presents complicated or detailed content in the form of figures or tables In addition the book compares the latest techniques with conventional techniques and troubleshoots conventional methods with modifications making it a practical resource for researchers in environmental science and natural resource management Discusses the pros and cons of past and current endeavors related to natural resource management Presents recent technologies and methods for management and conservation particularly with applications for sustainability Covers a variety of disciplines from environmental science to life science Includes a graphical abstract as well as a section on significant achievements in the field and future perspectives Ecotourism as a Tool for Sustainable Rural Community Development and Natural Resources Management in the Tonle Sap Biosphere Reserve Neth Baromey, 2008 Decision-Making in Conservation and Natural Resource Management Nils Bunnefeld, Emily Nicholson, E. J. Milner-Gulland, 2017-07-06 A guide to making good decisions about wildlife management and biodiversity conservation against a backdrop of socio environmental change Decision Making in Natural Resource Management Michael J. Conroy, James T. Peterson, 2013-03-18 This book is intended for use by natural resource managers and scientists and students in the fields of natural resource management ecology and conservation biology who are confronted with complex and difficult decision making problems The book takes readers through the process of developing a structured approach to decision making by firstly deconstructing decisions into component parts which are each fully analyzed and then reassembled to form a working decision model The book integrates common sense ideas about problem definitions such as the need for decisions to be driven by explicit objectives with sophisticated approaches for modeling decision influence and incorporating feedback from monitoring programs into decision making via adaptive management Numerous worked examples are provided for illustration along with detailed case studies illustrating the authors experience in applying structured approaches There is also a series of detailed technical appendices An accompanying website provides computer code and data used in the worked examples Additional resources for this book can be found at www.wiley.com/go/conroy_naturalresourcemanagement A New Century for Natural Resources Management Richard L. Malawi Andrew Watson,2000 The Precautionary Principle in Biodiversity Conservation and Natural Resource Management Rosie Cooney,2004 The precautionary principle or precautionary approach is now widely accepted in environmental law and policy at international and increasingly national level However the principle remains highly controversial its meaning contested its acceptance and implementation inconsistent across sectors and contexts and its impacts unclear This paper aims to inform and assist IUCN and its members in developing greater shared understanding of the meaning and implementation of the principle in the context of biodiversity conservation and natural resource management respecting priorities of both conservation and sustainable development It examines the meaning of the precautionary principle and its incorporation into biodiversity and resource management law and policy and discusses a series of issues raised by its implementation in this sector for biodiversity conservation and for livelihoods and poverty alleviation Sustainable Rural Livelihoods: Abstracts (447 p.) ,2000 Natural Resource Management and Local Development Russel D. Taylor,Emmanuel Torquebiau,2014-10-14 Natural resource management by rural citizens in tropical regions is crucial both to the conservation of biodiversity and ecosystem processes but also to the the well being and food security of the people that live there This situation is especially acute in Africa where conflicts between habitat destruction and utilization can arise in areas which are important not only for biodiversity but for the long term maintenance of ecosystems on which the people ultimately rely There can also be conflicts between outside specialists and the indigenous knowledge of local communities A holistic approach involving local peoples in management of their natural resources is therefore essential A range of approaches to the problem is explored here in relation to natural resource management to local development and livelihoods and the multi functional nature of land use Major topics debated are the dichotomy between strictly protected areas and ones including human activity people centred rather than legally enforced conservation market forces and the interrelationships between agriculture and conservation The book has 12 chapters prepared by researchers actively involved in community aspects of natural resource management in Africa and is based on an international workshop held in Niamey Niger in 2008 It will be of interest to all involved in the community approach to biodiversity conservation in less developed countries generally and not only in Africa as many of the issues addressed are pertinent globally Reprinted from Biodiversity and Conservation 18 10 2009 The Common Property Resource Digest, 2004 Empowering Communities to Manage Natural Resources Sheona Shackleton, Bruce Campbell, 2000
