Complex Issues in Child Custody Evaluations Philip M. Stahl,1999-05-21 This text is excellent and very timely Philip Michael Stahl s second volume is the perfect supplement to his Conducting Child Custody Evaluations because it deals with specific issues of great concern to evaluators parental alienation allegations of sexual abuse domestic violence move away situations and high conflict families The chapter dealing with child considerations is also very well done His discussion of developmental considerations is clear and supported by the latest research in the field I also liked his treatment of children s reaction to parental conflict weighing the needs of the individual child with the needs of the sibling group and giving the child a voice while protecting their privacy I also appreciated his discussion of components of the evaluator s recommendation use of psychological testing Rosemary Vasquez s discussion of cultural issues tackling the terror of testifying and ethical issues Phil Stahl has written a very important text It is timely well written and comprehensive Nice work Hugh McIsaac Oregon Family Institute When performing a custody evaluation how do professionals deal with the issue of domestic violence What impact does one parent's moving away have on the evaluation How should an evaluator handle high conflict divorces Over the past five to ten years there has been a significant increase in the use of child custody evaluations by the courts At the same time the issues have become more complex and difficult In this book the author provides a theoretical and practical understanding of many of the factors that make custody evaluations complex A key component is the integration of disparate research findings into a comprehensive resource that will enable the evaluator and the court to understand these complex issues A second component is to provide a thorough understanding of the fact that divorce brings with it a set of complex needs and evaluators and the courts must develop a paradigm for weighing these needs in a comprehensive manner This book provides that paradigm Encyclopedia of Educational Leadership and Administration Fenwick W. English, 2006-02-16 The SAGE Encyclopedia of Educational Leadership and Administration presents the most recent theories research terms concepts ideas and histories on educational leadership and school administration as taught in preparation programs and practiced in schools and colleges today With more than 600 entries written by more than 200 professors graduate students practitioners and association officials the two volumes of this encyclopedia represent the most comprehensive knowledge base of educational leadership and school administration that has as yet been compiled Cultural Diversity Jerry V. Diller, 1999 Offering a balance of clinical and theoretical information Jerry Diller provides a practical book focused on how to provide cross cultural services effectively You'll find coverage of general principles of cultural diversity and multiculturalism the process of cross cultural service delivery and cultural information on specific client populations The author builds a general understanding of what cultural diversity is and why it is important He considers the related dynamics of prejudice and racism as well as the meaning of culture and cultural differences He also helps students better understand their own prejudices so they can be more effective counselors when working with culturally different clients The author includes captivating interview with four professionals each from a different ethnic background Latino Latina Native American African American and Asian American Their interviews presented verbatim to retain their personal and cultural flavor are filled with rich cultural material and hands on clinical suggestions and cautions This topic seldom covered in multicultural texts is explored thoroughly Students will consider such questions as What is racism How does it operate in individuals and institutions to oppress people of color Why is it hard for mainstream whites to acknowledge it and their own privilege How do prejudices of human service providers compromise the helping process How can one become aware of and alter negative racial attitudes To assist students in personalizing these questions the author provides a series of self awareness exercises Business Ethics in Action Domènec Melé, 2025-12-11 Written by leading European expert Domènec Melé this is the ideal companion for students determined to make the business world a more ethical and moral place The Challenge of Cross-cultural Competency in Social Work Jean Schuldberg, 2005 This study evaluates the cultural competency needs in social work education from the perspective of eight social service workers from the Iu Mien community The National Association of Social Worker s NASW Code of Ethics views the acquisition of cultural competency as an ethical standard The Council on Social Work Education CSWE mandates the teaching of cultural competency in their guidelines Lack of cultural competency may hinder social workers ability to advocate help broker resources and support the strengths of individuals and communities The perspective of social workers cultural competency from recipients of service or workers from non dominant groups in the United States has not been researched Participatory research which involves collaborative dialogues between the researcher and participant s is the methodology for this study Most Iu Mien adults primarily refugees from Laos have experienced contact with social workers in the United States Social service workers from the Iu Mien community have the unique position of having received services and now providing them aspects of the Iu Mien people cultural competency needs and recommendations for social work education and practice and the presentation of the development of a qualitative research study Social work educators and students will find this book a wonderful tool

Second-level agenda-setting in German and Spanish news media. Germanwings's flight 9525 press conference with Lufthansa Julien Brühl, 2022-12-09 Master s Thesis from the year 2022 in the subject Communications Mass Media University of Amsterdam language English abstract This paper examines the following question How successful did the press conference frames influence second level agenda setting in German and Spanish news media In the flight industry cultural differences are present every day When a crash occurs the airline s crisis communication requires meeting the journalistic expectations of different cultural spheres Thus the study compares frames in Spanish and German news media Humans gather information about the airline s crisis communication through traditional media formats So high quality newspapers n 255 and newscasts n 40 were sampled Additionally the study compares the media formats To understand Germanwings s and Lufthansa s sense making frames were selected from a press conference Afterward the impact on second level agenda setting which is about manoeuvring around issues and the debate s tone was examined Essentially frames between both countries and both media formats varied In detail the difference was stronger pronounced for the latter Since in German news media the frames were more salient the company has to consider cultural particularities when being in a European conversation Frames were also more successful in newscasts than in newspapers Considering the wide reach of television the format is noteworthy for companies Also the study determined salient actors in three dimensions Occurrence prominence and centrality Here experts airlines and political actors were salient At this point a broad inclusion of civil society actors indicates a high quality of the debate Finally future research could include the two explored dimensions in longitudinal comparisons Also investigating the crisis communication of parent companies and subsidiaries should be considered
