Constable Around The Village:

Constable Around the Village Nicholas Rhea, 2008 As he settles into the village life of Aidensfield North Yorkshire Police Constable Nick Rhea begins to understand the complexities of rural law enforcement much of which proves to be very unofficial but highly effective We hear of his dilemmas as he is torn between his desire to prove the crippled Sidney Chapman's dog innocent of sheep worrying and the need to do his duty Farmer Lowe's sheepdog presents a different problem the overworked old dog is pretending to be deaf and Rhea finds himself drawn into the crisis without the dog the cows cannot be milked Local colours and characters abound The mixed creeds of the community provide more headaches for Rhea for example Jame Bathurst's funeral goes quite smoothly except that the village grave digger does not want the death bed convert buried in Catholic ground and has omitted to dig the grave Rivalry abounds between Anglicans Catholics and Methodists and Rhea has his work cut out More problems stem from the unlawful activities of Arnold Merryweather's bus with its massive conductress Hannah a jockey who steals supplies for his hungry horse and the old railway worker who vanishes as the last train passes through the village In all a vivid light hearted insight into rural bobbying

Constable by the Stream Nicholas Rhea, 2017-07-03 In the splendid countryside of North Yorkshire there's barely time to stop for Constable Nick Rhea. Not when missing sheep need locating, stray dogs need homing and thieves need identifying. As Britain's most popular copper continues his work around the village, he has to cope with an array of eccentric characters: a postman who can't read, a helpful lady who steals from the elderly, people in her care, and a delightful small-time villain called Tin Lid Talbot. Winning an aged tin of sardines in a local raffle and upsetting the villagers by getting first prize at the local whist drive, PC Nick Rhea must contend with the variety and humorous exploits of a Yorkshire village. Constable By the Stream is the lively tale of a young PC and the small rural community he calls home. Praise for Constable by the Stream: Stories of a constable on his village beat in North Yorkshire. All very gentle and far far removed from the hurly burly of modern-day city policing. Daily Telegraph. A fascinating insight into the life of a rural constable, the book makes splendid reading. Police Journal. The colourful as much as the criminal side of life is his professional lot, and in a whole series of attractively written anecdotes he reveals how the waywardness which leads both young and old into awkward individualism, as well as into evil, keeps him busy. The Countryman. Rhea's real strengths are his sharp portraits of people and absorbing detail of a country copper practising his craft. Northern Echo. An account of the hilarious happenings to the county's rural policemen over the years. Yorkshire Post. Filled with Yorkshire characters to make you laugh and cry, shows rural life through the eyes of a village bobby. Whitby Gazette. Brings humour to everyday events in the manner of James Herriot. Coventry Evening Telegraph. Nicholas Rhea, now retired, spent 30 years in the force, having started as a Police Cadet for the North Riding Constabulary. His best-known work, the Constable Series, provided the inspiration for the hugely popular TV series Heartbeat, and he remained involved with the series as a consultant until filming ended in 2009.
