Constant Nymph. [A Play.] From the Novel of Margaret Kennedy Margaret Moore Kennedy, Basil Dean, 1930 The Intimate Screen Jason Jacobs, 2000 This book explores the formative period of British television drama concentrating on the years 1936-55 It examines the continuities and changes of early television drama and the impact this had upon the subsequent golden age In particular it questions the caricature of early television drama as photographed stage plays and argues that early television pioneers in fact produced a diverse range of innovative drama productions using a wide range of techniques It also explores the often competing definitions about the form and aesthetics of early television drama both inside and outside the BBC Given the absence of an audio visual record of early television drama the book uses written archive material in order to reconstruct how early television drama looked and how it was considered by producers and critics whilst also offering a critical examination of surviving dramas such as Rudolph Cartier s Nineteen Eighty Four Applied Mutation

Breeding for Vegetatively Propagated Crops C. Broertjes, A.M. van Harten, 2013-10-22 When the first edition of this book

appeared in 1978 it was warmly received Most readers and reviewers especially valued the extensive coverage of the literature in the chapters dealing with the different crops a valuable and timely addition to plant breeders and of outstanding value to breeders of ornamental plants The book s special strength resides in the extensive review of literature International Journal for Breeding Research This is also reflected by the many times that the work has been referred to in other publications This new edition provides plant breeders as well as scientists with an up to date overview of methods and results of the application of mutation breeding in order to genetically improve vegetatively propagated crops General principles and background information about mutation breeding in general methods of treatment material to be treated and results are discussed in the introductory chapters followed by a description of the specific situation in each of the vegetatively propagated crops ever used in a mutation breeding project This volume brings together all the important and relevant literature in the field It provides a complete account of mutation breeding of vegetatively produced crops presenting conclusions about the value of the method its possibilities limitations and shortcomings and the possible difficulties of further application in various crops The initial chapters deal with the interactions between mutagenic treatment and plant material such as aspects of mutagenic treatment post irradiation behaviour of shoot apices and adventitious bud techniques All available literature is then discussed crop by crop and critically evaluated Almost 1700 references are covered and whenever possible suggestions for more efficient application of mutation breeding methods are given The Constant Nymph, Etc Margaret Kennedy, Basil DEAN, 1930 The Bookman, 1924 Outlook, 1927 Women, Celebrity, and Literary Culture between the Wars Faye Hammill, 2009-12-03 As mass media burgeoned in the years between the first and second world wars so did another phenomenon celebrity Beginning in Hollywood with the studio orchestrated transformation of uncredited actors into brand name stars celebrity also spread to writers whose personal appearances and private lives came to fascinate readers as much as their work Women Celebrity and Literary Culture between the Wars profiles seven American Canadian and British women writers Dorothy Parker Anita Loos Mae West L M Montgomery Margaret Kennedy Stella Gibbons and E M Delafield who achieved literary celebrity in the 1920s and 1930s and whose work remains popular even today Faye Hammill investigates how the fame and commercial success of these writers as well as their gender affected the literary reception of their work She explores how women writers sought to fashion their own celebrity images through various kinds of public performance and how the media appropriated these writers for particular cultural discourses She also reassesses the relationship between celebrity culture and literary culture demonstrating how the commercial success of these writers caused literary elites to denigrate their writing as middlebrow despite the fact that their work often challenged middle class ideals of marriage home and family and complicated class categories and lines of social discrimination The first comparative study of North American and British literary celebrity Women Celebrity and Literary Culture between the Wars offers a nuanced appreciation of the middlebrow in relation to modernism and popular culture The Constant Nymph
