Constructing Identities Mike Michael, 1996-01-28 This volume provides a distinctive overview and analysis of the place of social constructionism in social psychology The author s arguments revolve around two key questions How can social constructionism account for changes in human identities In what ways might social constructionism accommodate a role for nonhumans whether technological or natural in the constitution of identity Michael locates these questions between recent innovations in social psychology and the highly influential contributions of actor network theory which has come to dominate the sociology of scientific knowledge

Risk Deborah Lupton, 2023-07-20 We are living in a world in which the existence of risk is constantly debated misinformation and disinformation are rife and spread quickly and easily through online media and where governments and institutions continue to avoid taking decisive action even when there is general agreement that a serious threat exists Understanding how people social groups and social organizations understand respond to and act on threats hazards and dangers is more important than ever In Risk Deborah Lupton asserts the ongoing importance of the analysis of risk in our age of permacrisis and mounting scepticism about experts and science calling for a return to risk theory in the social sciences The book outlines the three major approaches to risk in social and cultural theory devoting a chapter to each The first approach draws upon the work of Mary Douglas to articulate the cultural symbolic perspective on risk The second approach is that of the risk society perspective based on the writings of Ulrich Beck and Anthony Giddens The third approach covered is that of the governmentality perspective which builds on Michel Foucault's work Three other chapters examine in detail the relationship between concepts of risk and concepts of selfhood and the body the notion of Otherness and how this influences the ways in which people respond to and think about risk and the pleasures of voluntary risk taking including discussion of edgework An entirely new chapter has been added to this edition focusing on the risks posed by misinformation and denial in the context of climate change and the COVID 19 pandemic This chapter discusses the politics of post truth cultures and the powerful networks of actor and organizations that together work to challenge science and manufacture dissent against attempts to tackle these crises This new edition of Risk is an essential introduction to the topic of risk for students and academics in the social sciences and humanities Public Understanding of Science, 1999 An international journal of research in the public dimensions of science and technology Rethinking Ethnology and Folkloristics Pille Runnel, 2001

Science, Technology and Society International Symposium Hacer Ansal, Deniz Çalışır, 1999 Sociological Abstracts Leo P. Chall, 1998 Making Identity Matter Robin Williams, 2000 Making Identity Matter provides a clear and lively critique of a variety of uses of the concept of identity within sociology and associated human sciences In the early chapters Robin Williams draws on a range of historical and contemporary sources to describe and discuss some common images of identity as subjective achievement as social location and as discursive effect In later chapters the author explores recent empirical studies which have argued for the suspension or modification of conventional theoretical assertions about how and why identity matters to human subjects in their ordinary lives Williams concludes by endorsing recent arguments for detailed descriptions of the ways in which identity matters arise and are dealt with within and through the accountability of social interaction Making Identity Matter will be essential reading for all those involved in the human sciences who are concerned to understand the significance accorded to identity within the wider effort to examine the relationship between subjectivity action and social and cultural institutions Modernizing the Mind Steven C. Ward, 2002-09-30 Ward provides a careful social and cultural history of the spread of psychological knowledge and an assessment of the way this proliferation has reconfigured the meaning of society and the way people look at themselves and others Claiming Sacred Ground Adrian J. their ethnicity is strongly made Felicity Collier the Director of British Agencies for Adoption and Fostering What are the needs of adopted minority ethnic children To what extent can white families meet these needs Should the emphasis on ethnic matching of children and families in adoption be relaxed This book reviews the long running and often fierce controversy surrounding the adoption of black and minority ethnic children either transracially into white families or into matched same race placements Through analysis of research and the writings of protagonists the core concepts namely the nature and salience of racial ethnic identity cultural heritage and dealing with racism are explored and located within broader debates on race and the family The history of the controversy is set out in terms of the competing paradigms offered by liberalism and black radicalism and more recent post structuralist influences The author argues the need to see adoption and especially that of black children as inherently political and contested While broadly supporting the case for same race adoption it is suggested that this must rest on acknowledgement of and engagement with social and psychological complexities rather than their suppression beneath doctrinaire formulae Race Ethnicity and Adoption sets the issues in the wider context of a multiracial society and its politics and will be of particular interest to social workers and child care professionals but will also appeal more widely to students of sociology and social and public policy Environment & Planning ,2009
