Communicative Constructions and the Refiguration of Spaces Gabriela B. Christmann, Martina Löw, Hubert Knoblauch, 2021-12 Through a variety of empirical studies this volume offers fresh insights into the manner in which different forms of communicative action transform urban space With attention to the methodological questions that arise from the attempt to study such changes empirically it offers new theoretical foundations for understanding the social construction and re construction of spaces through communicative action Seeing communicative action as the basic element in the social construction of reality and conceptualising communication not only in terms of the use of language and texts but as involving any kind of objectification such as technologies bodies and non verbal signs it considers the roles of both direct and mediated or digitised communication An examination of the conceptualisation of the communicative re construction of spaces and the means by which this change might be empirically investigated this book demonstrates the fruitfulness of the notion of refiguration as a means by which to understand the transformation of contemporary societies As such it will appeal to sociologists social theorists and geographers with interests in social construction and urban space

The Canadian City Roger Kemble, 1989-06-01 Architect and artist Roger Kemble has demonstrated his ideas of urban design with images from sixteen major Canadian cities among others He has walked measured and sketched their streets squares and places scanned their horizons probed the relationships between structures land and landscape with unprecedented energy More significantly he has reacted to the negative effect that all the busy business of urban development is having on our daily lives and he has had the courage to offer concrete remedial plans If as Kemble quoting Ruskin reminds us Architecture is the mother of the arts then time spent with his bold imaginative idiosyncratic view of the making and unmaking of cities drawn with passionate hindsight and compassionate foresight will be a moving and healing experience Through the beckoning text of The Canadian City and its 144 illustrations we will come to know the map of our own country and city as never before The long shadow cast by this knowledge will make us more aware travelers abroad too Principles of city living and city building will accompany us everywhere with an unsuspecting vividness There is only a short step from Roger Kemble's studio to the world Published in English

Experience and Conflict Panu Lehtovuori, 2010 When designing planning and building urban spaces many contradictory and conflicting actors practices and agendas coexist This book propounds that at present this process is conducted in an artificial reality Concept City characterized by a simplified and outdated conception of space It provides a constructive critique of the concepts underlying the practices of planning and architecture and in order to facilitate more dynamic inclusive and subtle practices it formulates a new theory about space in general and public urban space in particular The central notions in this theory are temporality experiment and conflict which are grounded on empirical observations in Helsinki Manchester and Berlin While the book contextualizes Lefebvre s ideas on urban planning and architecture it is in no way limited to Lefebvorean discourse but allows insights to new theoretical work including that of Finnish and Swedish authors In doing so it suggests and develops exciting new approaches and tools leading to experiential urbanism
