Consuming Passions A History Of English Food And Appetite:

Consuming Passions Philippa Pullar, 1977 A History of Cooks and Cooking Michael Symons, 2004

Never has there been so little need to cook Yet Michael Symons maintains that to be truly human we need to become better cooks practical and generous sharers of food Fueled by James Boswell's definition of humans as cooking animals for no beast can cook Symons sets out to explore the civilizing role of cooks in history His wanderings take us to the clay ovens of the prehistoric eastern Mediterranean and the bronze cauldrons of ancient China to fabulous banquets in the temples and courts of Mesopotamia Egypt and Persia to medieval English cookshops and southeast Asian street markets to palace kitchens diners and modern fast food eateries Symons samples conceptions and perceptions of cooks and cooking from Plato and Descartes to Marx and Virginia Woolf asking why cooks despite their vital and central role in sustaining life have remained in the shadows unheralded unregarded and underappreciated People think of meals as occasions where you share food he notes they rarely think of cooks as sharers of food Considering such notions as the physical and political consequences of sauce connections between food and love and cooking as a regulator of clock and calendar Symons provides a spirited and diverting defense of a cook centered view of the world

Aroma Constance Classen, David Howes, Anthony Synnott, 2002-11-01

Smell is a social phenomenon given particular meanings and values by different cultures Odours form the building blocks of cosmologies class hierarchies and political odours They can enforce social structures or transgress them unite people or divide them empower or disempower The authors argue that the sociology of smell is repressed in the modern West and its social history ignored This book breaks the olfactory silence of modernity It offers the first comprehensive exploration of the cultural role of odours in Western history from antiquity to the present It also covers a wide variety of non Western societies Its topics range from the medieval concept of the odour of sanctity to the aromatherapies of South America and from olfactory stereotypes of gender and ethnicity in the modern West to the role of smell in postmodernity Its subject matter will fascinate anyone who likes to nose around in the inner workings of culture

Consuming Passions and Patterns of Consumption Preston T. Miracle, Nicki Milner, Nicky Milner, 2002

This volume outlines and illustrates the importance of considering social contexts of food consumption in interpretations of past and present human societies giving a new twist to the old adage You are what you eat What we eat how we eat are and always have been fundamental to the structuring of social life both in the past and in the present The remains of food are also among the most common archaeological finds The papers in this volume explore and develop ways of using food to write social history they move beyond taphonomic and economic properties of subsistence resources to examine the social background and cultural contexts of food preparation and consumption Contributions break new ground in method and interpretation in case studies spanning the Palaeolithic to the Present and from the Amazon to the Arctic This volume will thus be essential reading for all archaeologists anthropologists and social historians interested in the prehistory and history of food consumption
