Communities And The Environment Ethnicity Gender And The State In Community Based Conservation:

Communities and the Environment Arun Agrawal, Clark C. Gibson, 2001 For years environmentalists thought natural resources could be best protected by national legislation But the poor outcomes of this top down policy have led conservation professionals today to regard local communities as the agents of conservation efforts According to a recent survey more than fifty countries report that they pursue partnerships with local communities in an effort to protect their forests Despite the recent popularity of a community based approach the concept of community rarely receives the attention it should get from those concerned with resource management This balanced volume redresses the situation demonstrating both the promise and the potential dangers of community action Although the contributors advocate community based conservation they examine the record with a critical eye They pay attention to the concrete political contexts in which communities emerge and operate Understanding the nature of community requires understanding the internal politics of local regions and their relationship to external forces and actors Especially critical are issues related to ethnicity gender and the state The SAGE Handbook of Environment and Society Jules Pretty, Andy Ball, Ted Benton, Julia Guivant, David R Lee, David Orr, Max Pfeffer, Professor Hugh Ward, 2007-10-30 A monumental and timely contribution to scholarship on society and environments The handbook makes it easy and compelling for anyone to learn about that scholarship in its full manifestations and as represented by some of the most highly respected researchers and thinkers in the English speaking world It is wide reaching in scope and far reaching in its implications for public and private action a definite must for serious researchers and their libraries Bonnie J McCay Rutgers University This is the desert island book for anyone interested in the relationship between society and the environment The editors have assembled a masterful collection of contributions on every conceivable dimension of environmental thinking in the social sciences and humanities No library should be without it Robyn Eckersley University of Melbourne The SAGE Handbook of Environment and Society focuses on the interactions between people societies and economies and the state of nature and the environment Editorially integrated but written from multi disciplinary perspectives it is organised in seven sections Environmental thought past and present Valuing the environment Knowledges and knowing Political economy of environmental change Environmental technologies Redesigning natures Institutions and policies for influencing the environment Key themes include locations where the environment society relation is most acute where for example there are few natural resources or where industrialization is unregulated the discussion of these issues at different scales local regional national and global the cost of damage to resources and the relation between principal actors in the environment society nexus Aimed at an international audience of academics research students researchers practitioners and policy makers The SAGE Handbook of Environment and Society presents readers in social science and natural science with a manual of the past present and future of environment society links Community, Environment and Local Governance in Indonesia Carol Warren, John F. McCarthy, 2012-09-10 This book explores the forces reconfiguring local resource governance in Indonesia since 1998 drawing together original field research undertaken in a decade of dramatic political change Case studies from across Indonesia s diverse cultural and ecological landscapes focus on the most significant resource sectors agriculture fisheries forestry mining and tourism providing a rare in depth view of the dynamics shaping social and environmental outcomes in these varied contexts Debates surrounding the tragedy of the commons and environmental governance have focused on institutional considerations of how to craft resource management arrangements in order to further the policy objectives of economic efficiency social equity and environmental sustainability The studies in this volume reveal the complexity of resource security issues affecting local communities and user groups in Indonesia as they engage with wider institutional frameworks in a context driven simultaneously by decentralizing and globalizing forces Through ground up investigations of how local groups with different cultural backgrounds and resource bases are responding to the greater autonomy afforded by Indonesia s new political constellation the authors appraise the prospects for rearticulating governance regimes toward a more equitable and sustainable commonweal This volume offers valuable insights into questions of import to scholars as well as policy makers concerned with decentralized governance and sustainable resource management

Forest and Nature Governance Bas Arts,Jelle Behagel,S  verine van Bommel,Jessica de Koning,Esther Turnhout,2012-09-22 Today problems such as deforestation biodiversity loss and illegal logging have provoked various policy responses that are often referred to as forest and nature governance In its broadest interpretation governance is about the many ways in which public and private actors from the state market and or civil society govern public issues at multiple scales This book takes a fresh perspective on the study of forest and nature governance Departing from practice theory and building upon scholars like Giddens Bourdieu Reckwitz Schatzki and Callon it seeks to move beyond established understandings of institutions actors and knowledge In so doing it not only presents an innovative conceptual and methodological framework for a practice based approach but also rich case studies and ethnographies Finally this book is about how actors involved in governance talk about and work with trees forests biodiversity wildlife and so on while acting upon forest policies environmental discourses codes of conduct or scientific insights

Human Ecology Daniel G. Bates,Judith Tucker,2010-03-29 This book arose from the need to develop accessible research based case study material which addresses contemporary issues and problems in the rapidly evolving field of human ecology Academic political and indeed public interest in the environmental sciences is on the rise This is no doubt spurred by media coverage of climate change and global warming and attendant natural disasters such as unusual drought and flood conditions toxic dust storms pollution of air and water and the like But there is also a growing intellectual awareness of the social causes of anthropogenic environmental impacts political vectors in determining conser tion outcomes and the role of local representations of ecological knowledge in resource management and sustainable yield production This is reflected in the rapid increase of ecology courses being taught at leading universities in the fa growing developing countries much as was the case a decade or two ago in Europe and North America The research presented here is all taken from recent issues of Human Ecology An Interdisciplinary Journal Since the journal itself is a leading forum for contemporary research the articles we have selected represent a cross section of work which brings the perspectives of human ecology to bear on current problems being faced around the world The chapters are organized in such a way to facilitate the use of this volume either to teach a course or to introduce an informed reader to the field

Green Grabbing: A New Appropriation of Nature James Fairhead, Melissa Leach, Ian Scoones, 2014-10-29 Across the world ecosystems are for sale Green grabbing the appropriation of land and resources for environmental ends is an emerging process of deep and growing significance A vigorous debate on land grabbing already highlights instances where green credentials are called upon to justify appropriations of land for food or fuel Yet in other cases environmental green agendas are the core drivers and goals of grabs Green grabs may be driven by biodiversity conservation biocarbon sequestration biofuels ecosystem services or ecotourism for example In some cases these agendas involve the wholesale alienation of land and in others the restructuring of rules and authority in the access use and management of resources that may have profoundly alienating effects Green grabbing builds on well known histories of colonial and neo colonial resource alienation in the name of the environment Yet it involves novel forms of valuation commodification and markets for pieces and aspects of nature and an extraordinary new range of actors and alliances This book draws together seventeen original cases from African Asian and Latin American settings to ask To what extent and in what ways do green grabs constitute new forms of appropriation of nature What political and discursive dynamics underpin green grabs How and when do appropriations on the ground emerge out of circulations of green capital What are the implications for ecologies landscapes and livelihoods Who is gaining and who is losing How are agrarian social relations rights and authority being restructured and in whose interests This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of Peasant Studies

Mountains: Physical, Human-Environmental, and Sociocultural Dynamics Mark A. Fonstad, 2018-12-07 Mountains have captured the interests and passions of people for thousands of years Today millions of people live within mountain regions and mountain regions are often areas of accelerated environmental change This edited volume highlights new understanding of mountain environments and mountain peoples around the world The understanding of mountain environments and peoples has been a focus of individual researchers for centuries more recently the interest in mountain regions among researchers has been growing rapidly The articles contained within are from a wide spectrum of researchers from different parts of the world who address physical political theoretical social empirical environmental methodological and economic issues focused on the geography of mountains and their inhabitants The articles in this special issue are organized into three themed sections with very loose boundaries between themes 1 physical dynamics of mountain environments 2 coupled human physical dynamics and 3 sociocultural dynamics in mountain regions This book was first published as a special issue of the Annals of the American Association of Geographers
