Enduring Loss in Early Modern Germany Lynne Tatlock, 2010 Cross disciplinary perspectives on responses to material and spiritual loss in early modern Germany trace how individuals and communities registered, coped with and made sense of deprivation through a spectrum of activities often turning loss into gain and acquiring agency

Boundaries and their Meanings in the History of the Netherlands, 2009-06-17 Traditionally the term boundary applies to the demarcation between a physical place and another physical place most commonly associated with lines on a map As the essays in this volume demonstrate however a boundary can also function in a more broadly conceptual manner A boundary becomes not an imaginary line but a tool for thinking about how to separate any two elements whether ideas events etc into categories by which they become comprehensible and distinct The scholar contributors seek not simply to discern the boundaries but and perhaps more importantly to understand the process of delination and its consequences With its maverick history and grass root political traditions the Netherlands provides an auspicious setting to examine the historical function of boundaries both real and imagined

Divining Science Warren Dym, 2010-09-24 The study of German mining and metallurgy has focused overwhelmingly on labor capitalism and progressive engineering and earth science This book addresses prospecting practices and mining culture Using the divining or dowsing rod as a means of exposing miner beliefs it argues that a robust vernacular science preceded institutionalized geology in Saxony and that the Freiberg Mining Academy f 1765 became a site for the synthesis of tradition and new science The tacit knowledge of dowsing was the mark of the experienced prospector and rather than decline in importance through the Enlightenment the practice transformed from a study of mineral vapors into an experimental branch of geophysics Mining administrations openly hired practitioners through the eighteenth century

Recomposing German Music Elizabeth Janik, 2005-12-01 Recomposing German Music illuminates the tangled relationship between music and politics in 20th century Germany Focusing on the reconstruction and division of Berlin's musical community after 1945 author Elizabeth Janik demonstrates how military occupation and Cold War rivalry transformed the city's elite musical institutions Berlin became a crucible for competing interpretations of German musical tradition Cultural authorities in East and West Berlin disputed the social authority responsible for defining and upholding musical standards the appropriate relationship between art and the state the definition of musical progress and finally the nature and purpose of music itself This study is an important contribution to the social history of 20th century music and the comparative cultural history of the two Cold War Germanys

The Discreet Charm of the Police State Jose Raymund Canoy, 2007 This book examines the complex and paradoxical relationship between authoritarian policing and the social and economic modernization of postwar Germany's largest and most historically authentic state as Bavaria joined the rest of the Federal Republic in a passage from postwar crisis to consumer prosperity

Place and Politics: Local Identity, Civic Culture, and German Nationalism in North Germany during the Revolutionary Era Katherine Aaslestad, 2005-12-01

This study examines North Germany during the transformative era of the French Revolution Napoleonic occupation and Wars of Liberation it reveals international exploitation military occupation economic destruction of the city state Hamburg as well as the republic's liberation and post Napoleonic autonomy Examining shifts within local culture and the role of public opinion on civic morality this book underscores the relationship between the civic ethics public language and collective memory in the construction of political identity and concludes that the transformation in values at the local level ultimately provides the crucial direction in the process of modern nation building Throughout the 1800s the public commemoration and memory of occupation and liberation rather than the actual Napoleonic experience shaped the development of German nationalism

The Soul of Commerce Robert Beachy, 2005 This volume offers a detailed account of Leipzig's social and political history from 1750 1840 and then argues persuasively that the city played a catalytic role in the introduction of a Saxon constitutional monarchy after 1830 Choice, 1996
