Aging Harry R. Moody, 2000-02-16 This highly successful influential and teachable book has changed the way many introductory social gerontology and aging policy courses are taught It includes exciting topics designed to engage students and stimulate classroom debate highly visible and current Controversies and short classic readings from world renowned writers No other book so explicitly links theory with practice taking the reader directly into everyday problems and challenges

Race, Ethnicity, Gender, and Class Joseph F. Healey, 1998-03-04 This text is an introduction to the sociology of minority dominant relations and was written for students who do not have extensive backgrounds in the social sciences I have tried to make the subject matter coherent to these students in part by applying a unified set of themes and concepts throughout the text The analysis is consistent and continuous even while examining multiple perspectives and a variety of viewpoints This subject matter is highly controversial and filled with drama tragedy and triumph I have tried to deal with the issues and tell the stories behind the issues in a way that makes the text both a pleasure to read and a demonstration of the power and importance of thinking sociologically

Communicating for Better Health Christina S. Beck, 2001 Communicating for Better Health provides a comprehensive theoretically sound and highly readable discussion of health communication in an ever changing health care industry With the advent of technology consumerism and managed care relationships between health care participants have become increasingly problematic with serious potential implications for care This text offers a thoughtful and thought provoking analysis of the issues and aspects of the field and explains how they influence and impact each other and other health care participants Writing in a style widely praised by reviewers who couldn t wait to read more Beck uses specific examples including a personal narrative that unfolds throughout the text to inspire students to read reflect and re examine the complexity of contemporary health communication
